21 Killed in Chicago Blaze; Other Fires Take Six Lives

Tachens Clear But Red Boats Create Threat

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red China massed a fleet of armed motorized junks off the Nationalist outpost island of Matsu today, the Defense Ministry said, in an ominous new threat right on the heels of Chiang Kai-shek's peaceful evacuation of the Tachens with U. S. help.

The appearance of more than 70 armed junks along the China coast near Foochow posed a possible new crisis in the tense Formosa strait.

In Washington, the State Department announced that U. S. Navy and Air Forces which protected the evacuation of the Tachens "will now resume their normal operations but will be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously undertaking to facilitate attack upon Formosa and will be prepared to take appropriate military action if required."

Two hundred miles north of Formosa, the Tachen Islands were left devasted and empty.

The last landing ship carrying a U. S. naval beach party and a few Nationalist soldiers pulled off a mud flat with high tide today, AP correspondent Jim Becker reported from the U. S. amphibious flagship Estes. It had been stuck almost nine hours.

During that tense time, the mighty U. S. 7th Fleet armada of 75 warships and circling planes remained in the area, guarding against any premature attempt by Red Chinese to take over the empty islands.

The Communists, eight miles away on Yikiangshan Island and 14 miles away on the mainland, made no attempt to interfere with the final stage of the evacuation.

The seas calmed and the wind died down as the fleet began to pull out. The weather was brisk.

The windup completed six days of frenzied activity during which 40,000 or more civilians, guerrillas and Nationalist troops were removed from the Tachens, the Yu Shans, 35 miles northeast, and Pishan, 32 miles southwest.

The evacuation was climaxed by a tremendous pyrotechnic display last night as demolition teams touched off piles of ammunition. The explosions rocked ships off the Tachens and shot balls of fire high in the sky.

The islands lie dead and silent until the Communists come to claim them.

Red Restraint Stirs Cease-Fire Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Faint official hopes for a cease-fire between Communist and Nationalist China were encouraged today by the fact that the Red Chinese refrained from making trouble during evacuation of the Tachen Islands.

State Department experts said it would be unwise to read too much significance into the Communist

Chou Opens Door to New Peace Drive

Leader of Reds Says He Favors Relaxation Of Formosan Tensions

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai says he favors relaxation of tension in the Formosa area—indicating Peiping is keeping the door open for continuing efforts to solve the Far Eastern crisis—an informed U. N. source reported last night.

Chou's stand, the source said, was contained in an oral message to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in which the Red Chinese leader again rejected a Security Council bid to talk about a possible Formosa cease-fire. The Peiping regime first announced its turndown of the invi-

Russians Seek Parley in Asia

BULLETIN

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio announced today Russia had called for a conference in either Shanghai or New Delhi on the question of Formosa.

The broadcast, recorded here, said the Russian proposal called for participation of these countries: China, presumably Communist China, the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and nations of Southeast Asia.

Britain is believed to have already rejected the idea of a Formosa conference without the participation of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

Rats Take Over

Tachens Deserted, Await Arrival of Chinese Reds

By JIM BECKER
And FRED WATERS

ABOARD AMPHIBIOUS FLAGSHIP ESTES FF TACHENS (AP)—The rats took over the Tachens today. The twin islands 200 miles north of Formosa are all theirs until the Communists come.

Rats—thousands of them, and some as long as your forearm scurried through the deserted villages as the last evacuation ship pulled away from the mudflats.

25,000 Removed

More than 25,000 Chinese Nationalist troops and civilians were removed in six days of evacuation under the protective guns, ships and planes of the U. S. 7th Fleet.

Except for the rats, the islands lie deserted — low, brown and scrubby. The scene of teeming activity a week ago and a frenzy of loading operation for six days now appeared like a medieval area where the entire population had packed and fled from a plague.

Fires started by bone-chilled soldiers, waiting their turn to board the ships, had spread to the village and others. Many of the stone houses are burned out hulks.

Elsewhere there are gaping holes in the ground, where Nationalist soldiers blasted their elaborate fortifications. Explosions shook the north island every few minutes during the early morning hours today, showering colored flames and rocking the ships off shore.

Eerie Silence

By daybreak the billowing explosions had ceased and an eerie silence fell over the island. Sea birds dipped low over the island.

The early morning tide ebbed for the first time in many centuries with no fishermen sailing with it in search of food.

No heavy incense burned in the Tachen temples. No housewives haggled with merchants at the markets. No one was born there today. No one died. No one laughed. No one cried. The people of the Tachens had left the home of their ancestors.

Train Plunges Off Track, No One Badly Hurt

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—A Boston to Bangor passenger train plunged off a rain-gouged roadbed bordering a riverbank area during a driving rainstorm last night. None of the 114 passengers and 6 crew members was seriously injured.

Two of the train's seven units—a storage mail car and an empty milk tank car—hurtled down a steep, 15-foot embankment into the ice-covered Kennebec River.

Four passenger coaches plunged off the twisted rails stopping just short of a water-filled ditch. One of them came to rest leaning against an embankment at a 30-degree angle. The others tilted but did not overturn.

Births, Deaths Go On On Evacuation Vessels

OFF THE TACHENS (AP)—Three babies were born and three ailing oldsters died Tuesday while virtually all the civilians on the Communist-menaced Tachens were removed to evacuation ships.

Among the thousands of Chinese boarding the vessels were many young mothers, carrying their babies on their backs.

Ice, Snow Hit State; Relief Not in Sight

Marion Temperature Plunges to One Below; To Drop More Tonight

The most widespread cold wave of the winter season clung tight over the Eastern two-thirds of the nation today with no relief in prospect for the weekend.

Throughout Ohio, ice and snow clung to city streets and highways and many slippery spots were reported, particularly in the northeast.

One Below Here

In Marion last night, the mercury skidded to one below and the high today was expected to reach only about 10 to 15 above.

Most other cities had a uniform one below but Zanesville reported 2 below and Bucyrus and Steubenville had three below. Broken clouds over the state kept the mercury from plunging to the expected new season lows, according to the Weather Bureau. Forecasters said it would have hit "10 below for sure" had it not been for the clouds.

Prospects for tonight and early Sunday are for temperatures in the zero to five below range — if skies are clear. Windy and very cold with snow flurries is the forecast for tonight and Sunday.

At least one death in Ohio was connected indirectly with the weather. Former Policeman Herberg L. Rockey, 73, of Miamisburg, died Friday of a heart attack while shoveling snow.

Highways Slippery

Highways east and north of a line marked by Sandusky, Bucyrus, Massillon and Youngstown were reported by the Highway Department to be slippery and hazardous because of snowdrifts and ice. The rest of the state's highways were reported slippery in spots.

Temperatures tumbled from the blast of arctic air from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast. Much of the South also got the full sting of the icy air.

It was freezing all the way to the Gulf Coast. Readings were in the 20s in many inland areas only a short distance from the coast.

At least 25 deaths were attributed to the cold and snow. The snow storms which hit much of the Midwest Thursday swept into the Eastern third of the nation yesterday. Falls measured more than a foot in upstate New York.

Deaths attributed to over exertion while shoveling snow and to accidents on icy or snow-covered highways included seven in Indiana; five in Michigan; four in Kentucky; three each in New York and Illinois; two in New Jersey and one in Ohio.

40 in Miami

The cold front, which dipped into Florida, brought sharp drops in temperatures since yesterday afternoon. Miami, which reported a high of 80 degrees yesterday, shivered early today in readings in the low 40s. The cold weather threatened vegetable and citrus crops. There was a similar threat to winter vegetable crops in the Rio Grande Valley.

A big storm was centered in northeastern Maine and heavy rain

Aga Khan Very Ill After Attack

Millionaire Religious Leader Has High Fever

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Aga Khan, sweltering with a high fever since Thursday night, was today reported suffering from a "heart attack."

The ailing 77-year-old spiritual leader of the Ismaili sect flew to Cairo early this week from the winter resort of Aswan for his symbolic weighing against platinum which was scheduled Feb. 20.

Members of the entourage of the multimillionaire religious leader today reported the Aga is in "very bad shape" after a "sleepless, disturbed night."

His wife, the begum, disclosed last night that the Aga was in serious condition.

The Aga Khan first fell ill last September but apparently recovered during a long convalescence in the hot, dry climate of Aswan, upper Egypt. He and his wife came to Cairo last week to be on hand for the weighing ceremony.

In the annual weighing, the Aga's 20 million followers in Asia and East Africa symbolically match his weight in a specified gem or precious metal and the proceeds go to Moslem charities.

The begum said she had cabled her husband's physician, Raymond Stehelin, asking him to fly to Cairo immediately from France.

The Aga's heir apparent is Aly Khan, divorced husband of actress Rita Hayworth.

Marion City Hall Takes On New Look

Annex To Be Torn Down; Telephone System Changed

Marion's new City Hall had a new telephone number today and will start taking on a new look Monday morning.

Mayor Harold F. Robinson said today that workmen will begin tearing down the old hospital annex buildings Monday morning.

AS SOON as possible after the annex is torn down a drive-in pay window for paying garbage and refuse collection bills will be installed at the rear of the main building, he said.

The changeover to a new telephone number for city hall has been under way for about two weeks and is expected to be fully in operation by Monday for those offices now occupying rooms in the new City Hall.

It means that persons calling any city office, other than the Police Department, Health Department, and Municipal Court will have only one telephone number to remember.

The new number for city offices is 3-1171. Dialing this number connects the caller to a switchboard operated by Miss June Thiel, clerk in the Police Department records room.

OFFICES WHICH may be contacted through this switchboard are: the city auditor, safety-service director, mayor, city clerk, Safety-Service Department offices, Garbage Department office, and city engineer.

THE VOICE OF MISS JUNE THIEL, clerk in the Police Department, now greets persons calling offices in the new City Hall. Miss Thiel is shown here operating the switchboard in the police records bureau through which calls to all city offices other than the police department are channeled. The single number for city offices is 3-1171.

Persons calling the Police Department will still call on the number formerly used at the old city hall. It is 2-2113. This number connects the caller with a switchboard operated by the police radio dispatcher who may in turn connect the caller with the chief of police, the police records room, the police captains' office, the juvenile officer and other police offices.

Telephone numbers for Municipal Court, both clerk and judge, and the City Health Department will remain as listed in the telephone book until these offices are moved from the old City Hall into the remodeled City Hospital building.

MAYOR ROBINSON said today that the Health Department will be the first to be moved and the Municipal Court will be the last

Senator Says Allies Set U.S. Foreign Policy

Malone, Addressing GOP Rally, Calls for End of Entanglements

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Malone (R-Nev) today told a rally of conservative Republicans that "our foreign policies are largely dictated by so-called allies."

He was teamed up with two other senators—McCarthy of Wisconsin and Dirksen of Illinois—and three other speakers on a day-long program of speeches.

The over-all theme was: "What must the Republican party do in 1955 to preserve the republic and itself?"

Malone, in a prepared address, said no U. S. business or manufacturing interest subject to competition from foreign imports is fully independent. He added:

"The State Department—most of its personnel a carryover from two Democratic administrations—has destroyed the independence of these enterprises by its foreign trade and foreign aid policies."

He said the United States is the only nation "that fights other people's wars and pays for them, too." He stated the Republican party's

Birthday Message

Ike Cites Lincoln's High Resolve and Faith in Man

THOMASVILLE, Ga (AP)—President Eisenhower declared today on Abraham Lincoln's birthday that "the greatness of the Republican party is, and will be, measured by the intensity of its devotion" to Lincoln's faith in America.

Eisenhower's message on the 146th anniversary of the first Republican President's birth was made public as the Chief Executive continued a weekend of rest and quail shooting at the plantation estate here of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The message said:

"In the present worldwide struggle between freedom and tyranny, Lincoln exemplifies the cause of America—by his faith in the individual man and woman; by his devotion to the concept that they are in fact endowed with liberty and inalienable rights; By his high resolution that 'government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.'

"The greatness of the Republican party is, and will be, measured by the intensity of its devotion to the faith of Lincoln.

"For all Americans, this year's observance of Lincoln Day should renew our determination to uphold the historic freedoms upon which our progress, security and happiness as a nation continue to depend."

Eisenhower's brief reference to the Republican party in the birthday message was his only bow to the political significance of the day. Unlike many other GOP leaders throughout the country, he planned no speechmaking to mark the occasion.

Youth Arrested In Bomb Scare Case at School

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police at nearby Marion Township said they have identified one of the mysterious telephone callers who have plagued the Columbus area recently with bomb scare reports.

Officers identified the caller as a 16-year-old student at Marion-Franklin High School, alerted two days ago when a bomb was reported in the building. Classes continued while the search was made.

Police said they believed the boy made only the one call to the high school, and was not connected with seven other recent bomb scare calls.

The student and a friend—also a Marion-Franklin student—now are in a juvenile detention home awaiting action.

Columbus police say other mysterious voices have varied, some were women's, some men's and others sounded like youngsters'.

Altogether, eight bomb - scare calls have been reported here in the past week. Calls yesterday were received at the Farm Bureau Building and at a private residence.

It'll Be on TV Tonight

Filmland in Tizzy; Oscar Nomination Time Is Here

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie colony, worried about that egg-on-the-face look, will turn out reluctantly tonight for the first telecast in history of the Academy Award nominations.

Jan Sterling "The High and The Mighty" summed up the feelings of all potential Oscar nominees when she asked her dressmaker to whip her up something that would look flashy enough for a winner and subdued enough for a loser.

NBC-TV has promised that the cameras will only picture the reactions of winners, not losers. That poses a dilemma for actors who hate to pass up such a huge audience, win or lose.

Will Begin at 9 p.m.

The telecast will begin at 9 p.m., EST, and will pick up from four spots—NBC Burbank, Ciro's, Romanoff's and the Cocoanut Grove.

Potential nominees will be scattered throughout all four spots. Judy Garland "A Star Is Born" will be with emcee Jack Webb at Burbank as will Jane Wyman "Magnificent Obsession."

Humphrey Bogart "The Caine Mutiny" will be at Romanoff's. He was supposed to be at the downtown Cocoanut Grove but he declined:

"That trip's too far to drive back if they don't call your name," explained Bogie. "Besides I'm a stockholder at Romanoff's."

Bing Will Be Home

Bing Crosby, a favorite for "The Country Girl," will watch it on TV at home. He's just a few days out of the hospital, where he had a kidney stone removed.

Katy Jurado "The Broken Lance," a favorite among supporting actresses, will be at Romanoff's.

Over-all, there has been some resentment among movie folk about the telecasting of the nominations. Many feel that it takes away too

Maid Admits Murder of Wife Of Millionaire

Hacked Her to Death In Argument Over How To Cut Bone in Roast

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A 25-year-old maid, employed at the home only three days, admitted she bludgeoned the frail wife of multimillionaire Samuel Hayden to death with an ax, Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson disclosed today.

Mrs. Peggy King admitted hacking Mrs. Katie Hayden, 71, repeatedly last Wednesday after an argument over how to cut a bone from a roast, the chief said. The maid was booked on suspicion of murder early today.

Autopsy surgeons estimated Mrs. Hayden had been hit 20 to 30 times on the head and neck. Brutality of the act led detectives to believe that the killer was motivated by revenge or hatred.

Mrs. King, alone in the $200,000 mansion with Mrs. Hayden at the time of the tragedy, at first told police that she discovered Mrs. Hayden dying on the kitchen floor when she sought her to tell her about a telephone call.

However, Chief Anderson said, the maid broke down under intensive questioning last night And lie detector tests yesterday "substantiated our belief she had been lying all along," Anderson added.

Lie detector tests yesterday resulted in freeing Rutherford Leon Bennett, 39, fired last Jan. 31 as cook and butler by Hayden, 70, wealthy real estate developer. Bennett, who said he had told the truth of his innocence "over and over again," had been booked on suspicion of murder shortly after the slaying.

Air Force Grounds B57 Light Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has grounded its B57 light bombers in what was described as a precautionary safety measure following recent crashes of the twin jet planes.

In its announcement yesterday, the Air Force said the grounding was requested by the Glenn L. Martin Co., builder of the B57 night intruder. Also set down were RB57 tactical reconnaissance planes.

The Air Force said it plans investigations of two B57 crashes last Tuesday, one in Maryland and the other in California. There was no mention in the announcement of a third B57 crackup in Maryland several weeks ago.

Crowded Skid Row Hotel Is Hit by Flames

Holocaust Believed Touched Off by Man Using Rubbing Alcohol

By The Associated Press

At least 21 men were killed and 14 were injured today in a fire which raced through the crowded Barton Hotel on Skid Row in Chicago.

Firemen said another body had been sighted in the wreckage of the five-story building which contained 365 cubicle rooms mostly partitioned cubby holes for transients.

Six other persons lost their lives in fires yesterday and last night in Kennebunk, Maine, and in Brownsville, Texas.

Firemen Save Some

Some of the other 45 residents of the Skid Row Hotel scurried outside into zero temperatures without shoes or socks. Others were carried down ladders by firemen.

C. W. Harvey the hotel's night clerk said the fire may have started from a human torch. Joe Armatzo, about 70, a pensioner, started to scream in his cubicle on the second floor and ran out covered with flames.

Armatzo habitually used rubbing alcohol, hotel officials said and might have been using the rubbing alcohol while smoking.

Firemen fought the flames for nearly four hours in zero temperatures and a 20-mile wind before bringing it under control. At least two firemen were among the injured.

365 Cubicles

Chief Fire Marshal John J. Haberkorn said hotel guests could rent one of the 365 cubicles for anywhere from 65 to 75 cents a night.

Each cubicle he said is four feet wide six feet long and seven feet high. Each is divided by corrugated iron which is covered on the top by mesh chicken wire. There is an aisle between two rows on each floor.

Eight Hospitalized

Eight men were hospitalized while several others were treated for injuries in nearby mission houses in the skid row district, about a mile from the Loop.

The extra alarm fire was fought in temperatures of one below zero and with winds of nearly 20 miles an hour. Firemen fought the blaze nearly four hours before it was brought under control.

Anthony Dykes, 45, a janitor at the hotel, told police the first alarm of the fire came from an unidentified man on the second floor. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Dykes told police that moments before the blaze broke out he saw

$100,000 Fire Hits Marysville Farm Building

MARYSVILLE — A fire of undetermined origin early this morning caused an estimated $100,000 damage to a large corn drier at the D. G. Scott seed corn farm about two miles north of Marysville on the Marion Rd.

The fire was discovered at 2:45 a.m. by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bolenbaugh, tenants on the farm.

The Marysville Fire Department was called and firemen were fighting the blaze in below-zero temperatures. At 9 a.m. they were still there.

The large frame building housed approximately 10,000 bushels of dry seed corn. Bolenbaugh said the damage estimate included the building, the corn and the contents of the building, which included processing machinery.

President of OWU May Get Extension of Leave

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Defense Moblizer Arthur S. Flemming may get an extension on his leave as president of Ohio Wesleyan University. Harvey O. Yoder, president of the university board of trustees, yesterday said due to the international situation the board took no action on setting a date for Flemming's return to the campus. Yoder appointed a committee to study the matter and make recommendations.

Silent Auto Engine Possible in Future

CHICAGO (UP) — Some day you may drive an automobile with an engine so quiet you won't know it's running.

Such things as under - hood acoustical blankets and firewall treatment can render engines virtually noiseless, David C. Apps, a General Motors official, told a National Noise Abatement Symposium.

"Frequently, major noise problems are caused by an unbelievably small amount of energy expended," Apps said. Engine noise abatement would require acoustic blocking of all paths transmitting the noise energy, he added.

Apps said a new vehicle noise standard prohibits trucks to exceed more than 125 sones (units of loudness) at 50 feet. This he said, has caused manufacturers to develop better mufflers and "should provide a powerful inducement" for improvement of replacement mufflers on older vhicles.

ORDINANCE NO. 5856

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS IN ANTICIPATION OF THE COLLECTION OF SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF MERCHANT AVENUE FROM CHURCH STREET TO INDIANA AVENUE BY THE CONSTRUCTION OF A CONCRETE CURB AND GUTTER ON BOTH SIDES THEREOF.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Marion, State of Ohio:

That for the purpose of raising money in anticipation of the collection of special assessments for the improvement of Merchant Avenue from Church Street to Indiana Avenue in accordance with Ordinance No. 5277 passed, October 9, 1950, bonds of said city shall be issued to the amount of $8,000.00 to pay notes previously issued and about to mature.

It is hereby recited and declared that there has been included in the amount of said bonds (and in the notes previously issued), an amount sufficient to pay the interest thereon until said assessments are available.

Section 2. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and Auditor, bear date not later than April 30, 1955, and shall be numbered and be due and payable as follows:

Principal and interest shall be payable at the legal depository of the City of Marion, Ohio.

Section 3. For the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on the taxable property abutting the improvement, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run, in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay the interest upon said bonds as and when the same shall fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section II of Article XII of the Constitution. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are payable and are applicable to the payment of such interest and principal and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

In the event that the amount of bonds required to be issued for said improvement shall be reduced by the cash payment by the property owners in accordance with the option included in the assessing ordinance, such reduction shall be accomplished by reducing all of the serial bonds hereinabove provided for so as to retain substantially equal annual maturities.

Section 6. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of the city, have been performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the full faith, credit and revenue of said city shall be and are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will be exceeded in issuing said bonds.

Section 7. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be used for the purpose for which said bonds are issued and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied in the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 8. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and for the further reason that the prompt financing of said improvements is necessary in order to provide adequate street facilities for said city and the inhabitants thereof, and to pay off outstanding notes issued in anticipation thereof which notes have matured; WHEREFORE, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

September 1, 1960	5	500.00

It is hereby determined that the above maturities are in substantially equal annual installments.

Said bonds shall be of the denomination of $500.00 each, shall bear interest at the rate of three (3) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of March and September of each year and for which the proper interest coupons bearing a facsimile of the signature of the auditor shall be attached to and made a part of said bonds; provided, however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified, such bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided for in the resolution of council approving the award thereof. Principal and interest shall be payable at the legal depository of the City of Marion, Ohio.

Section 3. For the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on the taxable property abutting the improvement, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run, in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay the interest upon said bonds as and when the same shall fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section II of Article XII of the Constitution. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are payable and are applicable to the payment of such interest and principal and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required, shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which, together with the interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of principal and interest of said bonds when and as the same fall due.

Section 4. The city auditor is hereby authorized and directed to certify a copy of this ordinance to the auditor of Marion County, Ohio, according to law.

Section 5. That all installments of said assessments and all portions thereof, together with interest thereon, shall be applied to the payment of said bonds and interest as the same shall become due and to no other purpose whatsoever. In the event that the amount of bonds required to be issued for said improvement shall be reduced by the cash payment by the property owners in accordance with the option included in the assessing ordinance, such reduction shall be accomplished by reducing all of the serial bonds hereinabove provided for so as to retain substantially equal annual maturities.

Section 6. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of the city, have been performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the full faith, credit and revenue of said city shall be and are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will be exceeded in issuing said bonds.

Section 7. That said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund in his official capacity, and if said officer refuses to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be used for the purpose for which said bonds are issued and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied in the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 8. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and for the further reason that the prompt financing of said improvements is necessary in order to provide adequate street facilities for said city and the inhabitants thereof, and to pay off outstanding notes issued in anticipation thereof which notes have matured; WHEREFORE, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Ministers, Like Doctors, on the Job Day and Night

ENGAGING IN THE MINISTRY means much more than preparing sermons and conducting church services, as Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church can testify.

UPPER LEFT: Rev. Holloway, shown at right, confers in his study at home with his assistant, Rev. Warren W. Lindstrom, on church matters. Trinity Church parsonage is at 216 S. Vine St. The church at 220 S. Main St. maintains an office there for Rev. Lindstrom.

Preaching Just a Part of Myriad Duties Which Keep Pastors Busy

By ELAINE BALLINGER

A typical day in the life of a minister? There is no such thing, as a typically busy Marion pastor, Rev. J. B. Holloway of Trinity Baptist Church, will tell the inquirer. On the job in Marion since Feb. 1, 1941, he began his fourteenth year with the Trinity Church congregation last week, a period interrupted for a time while he served as a U.S. Navy chaplain in World War II.

Like the old-fashioned family doctor, the minister is on call 24 hours a day, any hour of the day or night. And the variety of calls on the time and talents of the minister is almost unlimited in scope.

BESIDES PREPARING his Sunday sermons, midweek service talks and on occasion an address as a guest speaker, he has many other demands to fulfill. He is expected to and does efficiate traditionally at weddings, funerals, baptisms and, in the case of some denominations, at the christenings of brand-new parishioners.

He calls on the ill and shutin, comforts the bereaved and prays with the dying He is asked to trace birth records, locate missing persons, help find jobs, and even shelter the transient or the evicted.

This is not all by far He must, in actuality, tend not only to his own affairs but to many of those of his congregation.

He is not only a spiritual advisor. he is a confidante. counselor and friend to the troubled. His knowledge is drawn on constantly, perhaps as economic adviser to a family; he may be called on as a legal counsultant, as a labor mediator, or as settler of disputes. He helps to smooth out a youth's tangled romance. He must, in truth, be a practicing psychologist

He may be called on, particularly if the parsonage is next door to the church, to ring the bell in case the custodian has broken a leg at a half hour to service time, or to teach a Sunday School class on a minute's notice if there is a shortage of teachers.

IT HAS BEEN known to happen, not altogether uncommonly, that some parishioner has considered it not beneath the preacher's dignity to act as an errand messenger. All this the minister takes "in stride" and manages well by drawing on spiritual grace to keep the even tenor of good nature by and large

The parsonage family need not be surprised at any request "Will you sell our mother's furniture?" the out-of-town family of a deceased parishioner once wrote to the Holloways.

A request to introduce to a crowd around the train a candidate for the presidency of the United States startled Rev Holloway during a pre-election tour by that certain senator. Rev Holloway ordinarily takes no part in partisan politics.

Once asked to catch and hold a fellow until his opponent could finish a fight, Rev. Holloway says, "Naturally, I declined."

—:—

IN ADDITION to filling the posts of their calling, pastors in most communities are sought after as members of civic betterment groups. They belong to interdenominational organizations with the various duties attached to such participation, and frequently are members of both service clubs and fraternal organizations.

The pastor may set for himself a detailed schedule for his next day, but in a brief few minutes that schedule is obliterated by demands on his time or even by an emergency.

Take, for example, a recent day planned by Rev. Holloway The morning was to be spent in the study, the afternoon in pastoral visitation, and a Brotherhood meeting was set for that night.

Started well with breakfast and morning devotions, the day included two hours of gatering material for a sermon and a class in the Church School of Missions. A conference was held at the church with the director of Christian education. Noon was spent at Kiwanis luncheon followed with a meeting of the Kiwanis church committee

After conferring with a layman on church building plans came a consultation with a bride-elect and another on plans for a church wedding. Dictation of correspondence at the church office, and only an hour and a half was left for pastoral calling.

BETWEEN TIME for making six hospital calls at 5 30 was a group conference on community problems, moral and narcotics questions. A half hour snatched for dinner preceded telephoning and an emergency home counseling case — not a chance to relax.

After the Brotherhood session came a visit to the church office for signing correspondence, taking it to mail, thence home to catch up on the daily news, write in the diary and have a sustaining snack before retiring. The time? Hands of the clock straight up told the tale that it was the beginning already of another day.

Outgoing telephone calls that day included greetings to members of the church celebrating birthdays; arranging details for Sunday night with candidates for baptism; locating furniture for a needy family.

Incoming calls had to do with Youth Sunday plans; the report that a homeless family was in need; making engagements for consultations; church business, emergency request for mediation in family trouble, reports on sick; and long distance call on church convention business.

DENOMINATIONALLY, Rev. Holloway is a member of the board of trustees of the Ohio Baptist Convention, chairman of three convention committees, and a member of two others He is a member of committees of the Marion Baptist Association.

Interdenominationally he is a member of the Marion County Council of Churches and of the Marion County Ministerial Association, serving on committees and concerned with various phases of work of the two organizations. He is on the board of Red Cross directors, and is a Kiwanian with church committee duties.

Yes, the minister's life might be called "hectic," but in spite of its hardships there are rewards as in all worthwhile undertaking. Every true "shepherd of the flock" knows in his heart there is no other work for him, because in every call to service he feels the call of God.

Fraternity Chapter Dedicates House At Ohio Wesleyan

DELAWARE — A $225,000 colonial style house was dedicated today on Ohio Wesleyan University's new "fraternity row" by the 85-year-old chapter of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The house was named Wilkinson Lodge, in honor of Cecil J. Wilkinson of Washington, D. C., an Ohio Wesleyan graduate of 1917.

A native of East Palestine, O., Wilkinson has been editor of Phi Gamma Delta's national magazine for 35 years and has served the fraternity as executive secretary for 33 years.

As an undergraduate at Ohio Wesleyan he was head of the local interfraternity council, editor of the student newspaper, The Transcript, and president of his own fraternity.

The new four-story house named in his honor houses 40 upperclass students. A dining room seating 80 to 150 persons, a kitchen, a recreation room, a chapter room and a patio make up the ground floor.

The main floor includes the housemother's suite, the library and the living room Study and sleeping rooms occupy the two top floors.

More than half of Ohio Wesleyan's male students live in the chapter houses of the 15 fraternities in Delaware. At least six other fraternities have indicated interest in building new houses on the Oak Hill site near the new freshman men's dormitory which was opened in September.

If you have been as fascinated by these hand weavings as we are, you will not want to miss this unusual exhibition. So come and see Scotty spin the yarn and weave it on his authentic old loom while you watch.

Scotty will also show you how the Firth carpet people have created special Shepherd Homespun wool yarns to weave new and wonderfully thrifty carpets . . . by their revolutionary "tuftwoven" process. Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Get at the Roots of Unhappiness

Some years ago at the Marble Collegiate Church in New York, we organized a religio-psychiatric counseling clinic for the simple purpose of helping people who are unhappy and don't know why, but who want to learn how to live effectively.

DR. PEALE

We entered this field because we had learned that when the wisdom of modern science and the ancient insights of God are applied to human nature in an objective, scientific manner, we can discover exactly what lies at the root of a person's unhappiness. For when you know what bothers you and why, then the trouble may be cured through spiritual therapy.

A West Coast physician once consulted me saying that he and his wife had reached an unhappy state of affairs in their marriage. He admitted he was unable to cope with the problem professionally because he was involved emotionally.

THEY WERE a fine, well educated and intelligent young couple, yet somehow they had not been able to live together in harmony.

"I'll do anything in the world to save our marriage," he told me.

"So will I," she said. "I really don't know why I feel the way I do. I have everything, yet I am so unhappy. I resent my husband. But there is no reason for so doing, for he is kind and I love him."

"Do you want to leave him?" I asked.

"Oh, no," she replied. "But I do want to know how to get along with him in happiness and peace instead of feeling the way I do."

A member of our psychiatric staff studied the facts about this couple. The girl, it appeared, was the daughter of a dominating father. He had never given her the amount or kind of normal love she ought to have had, so there developed a deep, smouldering, resentment in her against her father.

THEN, BY A curious but oft repeated quirk of human nature, when she married, she transferred that father-image to her husband. Psychologically her husband became not a husband, but a father. In fact, her unconscious resentment of her father extended not only to him but to all men. Because her father had crushed her personality, subconsciously she felt that all men were her natural enemies. Thus she hated and loved her husband at the same time. Her basic attitude toward him was a carry-over of a resentment that made happiness impossible.

She was amazed when this was explained to her by our psychiatrist, but after reflection she acknowledged that this was indeed her problem. Under the guidance of skilled psychiatric counseling and new knowledge of the uses of prayer and faith taught her by our pastors, the couple are gradually making a good adjustment.

I emphasize the importance of prayer as a factor in that adjustment, for prayer is a mechanism through which profound insights come to us, and it also supplies sufficient strength to change ourselves.

MANY PEOPLE ARE haunted and made miserable and dissatisfied all their lives by inner urges and conflicts that they do not understand. It is important to know yourself and to understand the causes of your reactions. Then we must have God's power to correct ourselves.

The study of the Bible and the practice of religion provides as many practical techniques to assist you to self-understanding as anything taught in the schools of psychology, psychiatry or psychoanalysis. We have learned in our day to get at the roots of unhappiness by combining religious faith which is old and proved by the test of time with the psychological approach which represents more recent discovery in understanding and helping human beings.

So, if you are unhappy, ask a competent spiritual counselor to help you get at the roots of your unhappiness and to replace it with the truly great joy that results from faith and self-understanding.

Three Injured In Automobile Accidents Here

Seven Mishaps Listed By Marion Police; 4 Investigated in County

Three persons sustained injuries in two of eleven accidents investigated Friday by Marion police, state highway patrolmen, and the sheriff's office. Marion police listed a total of seven accidents, five of which caused less than $100 damage, and the patrol and sheriff's office each reported two accidents.

Both drivers were injured when cars driven by Edgar Leroy John, 30, of Lancaster, and Evelyn Joyce Hullholand of Bloomville, collided at 5 p.m. Friday on Route 23 about one mile north of Waldo. The John car was southbound while the other car was heading north. Considerable damage resulted to both vehicles.

John sustained lacerations of the forehead and a possible cerebral concussion, and was taken by a passing physician to his own physician in Columbus for treatment.

The woman was taken to Marion General Hospital where she was treated for multiple abrasions and a nose laceration and then released. She was arrested on a charge of driving left of center, and is to appear in Municipal Court on Feb. 19.

The other accident investigated by patrolmen occurred at 4:50 p.m. Friday on Route 23 about two miles north of Route 4.

A northbound car driven by William H. Stephens, 39, of Upper Sandusky, went off the road and struck a General Telephone Co. pole. Considerable damage resulted to the automobile. Stephens was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated and was placed in the Marion city jail.

None Injured in City

Seven minor, no injury traffic accidents were investigated Friday by Marion police.

At 10:53 a.m., a car driven by William E. Marvin, 21, of Richwood skidded on icy pavement at S. Main and Church St. into the rear of a police cruiser driven by Patrolman Floyd M. Wilson, 44, of 942 Chatfield Rd.

A similar collision at 12 noon involved a car driven by Robert L. Evans, 47, of 568 Bellefontaine Ave. and a taxicab the driver of which was not known to police.

Each of the five remaining collisions caused less than $100 total damage, police estimated.

Ice Causes Mishaps

Two one-car accidents, both caused partly by icy conditions on the roads, were reported today by the sheriff's office. The first happened at 10 p.m. Friday night at County Roads 162 and 174.

A tractor-truck outfit operated by J. H. Jamison, 36, of near Galion failed to make the turn where 162 deadends at 174. The truck skidded off the road and struck a utility pole owned by the Ohio Edison Co.

Jamison suffered a swollen ankle, but did not require treatment. The truck was badly damaged on the right side and on the trailer.

The second mishap was at 5 a.m. today on Route 23 three and one-half miles south of Marion. Walter James, 31, of near Marion told deputies he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and lost control of his vehicle on the ice.

Deputies reported he skidded off to the left side of the road, went into a ditch and struck some farm fence owned by A. Gail Smith of near Marion. At the time of the mishap, James was southbound on Route 23. He was uninjured but his car was damaged on the left front and side and had to be removed from the scene by wrecker.

Man Sent to Workhouse

A 31-year-old former Marion man was sentenced to six months in the workhouse when he pleaded guilty to a non-support charge Friday in Municipal Court.

He was E. L. Ross, 31, who was charged in an affidavit filed against him by the Marion County Humane Society on behalf of his wife. He was charged with failure to provide for his minor children.

A new undertaking of the Epworth Methodist Youth Fellowships in Marion is described in the current issue of a national publication of the denomination, "Shepherds." This is the distribution of elements of the communion to the sick and shutin as a part of the Christian witness program of the young people's organization.

After a Saturday afternoon preparation service at the church, the young people deliver the communion elements to the homes of the shutins, then on the Sunday morning following, the pastor, Rev. Walter C. Eyster, conducts the service on the radio over Station WMRN while the people partake of the communion in their homes.

Approximately 100 ill and disabled persons were thus served on Worldwide Communion Sunday last fall and the first Sunday of the new year. Communion in the Methodist Church comes quarterly.

Bender Blames Formosa Situation on Yalta Pact

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—U. S. Sen. George H. Bender says the Yalta agreement of 1945 is the reason for the "desperate dilemma" the United States is in today "in the straits of Formosa."

Speaking at a Lincoln Day dinner here last night, the Ohio Republican declared:

"No one has yet analyzed fully the significance of that infamous conference."

Since the late President Roosevelt met at Yalta with Churchill and Stalin, said Sen. Bender, Communists have "sized China" and extended their activities in southeast Asia.

Few Offer To Testify In Opposition to Harlan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Judiciary Committee aides said today they have received "only a trickle" of responses from persons who had asked to testify in opposition to the nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court.

Harlan, now a U. S. circuit judge in New York, has been invited to sit in Feb. 23 when the committee listens in secret to protests against his confirmation. There are indications, however, Harlan may pass up this invitation.

Committee aides said more than 50 individuals originally asked to be heard on the nomination, but that few of these had responded to invitations to appear.

Some men are remembered for their deeds . . . the battles they won and the prizes they gained. But not A. Lincoln!

Men still call him "honest Abe," and they take courage in his humility. Men honor his devotion to the principles for which he stood; they esteem his love for humanity; they marvel at his capacities for sympathy, understanding and forgiveness.

History has known few men whose memory could survive the hatreds of war and find sanctuary in the hearts of victor and vanquished alike. But Abe Lincoln belongs to all of America. Christian nobility is revered for itself, whether it wore blue or gray.

As the character of a man can bind up the wounds of a nation, so the Christian faith which moulded Abe Lincoln can build under God a world of peace and understanding. To that proposition our Churches are dedicated.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Reciprocity Means Both Ways

The significance of a congressional wisecrack made long ago — that the tariff policy of the United States is a local issue — is being hammered home by the realities of this hardiest of all perennials among national questions.

The realities are coming home to roost; they are local.

The realities have nothing to do with theories and slogans. They are concerned only with the effects of trade practices, and the practice they are chiefly concerned with as time goes on is the contempt revealed abroad for "reciprocity" —the finest theory and the most inspiring slogan of all who support a policy of getting rid of trade barriers.

The catch in reciprocity has turned out to be the fact that only the United States has been getting rid of trade barriers. Other nations have been throwing up new and ingenious barriers against U.S. products as fast as they could invent them. They do not call these "tarriff barriers," because that would violate the letter of their agreements with the United States. But import quotas, licensing restrictions, red tape making it impossible to get service on U.S. machines and the manufacture of competing products by penny-paid labor and under government subsidy can do as much damage as tarriff barriers.

Samuel Lubell describes this in detail in "The Revolution in World Trade," published by Harper & Brothers. The American Tariff League sums it up concisely in these words in "Innocence Abroad," a pamphlet treatment of the subject:

"American concessions under the reciprocal trade policy have not been reciprocated by equivalent concessions from other nations."

It is time for Congress to brush up on the purpose of reciprocity. In 1934, when it began, Congress authorized the president to enter into trade agreements with other nations "for the purpose of expanding foreign markets for the products of the United States."

It never has the idea of reciprocity to shrink foreign markets while opening the domestic market to foreign manufactures.

No One Stopped Them

The successful evacuation of the Tachen Islands has added some perspective to the state-side view of current Pacific strategy.

It is clearer now than it was before that Communist China would have been utterly foolish to try to stop what for it was a strategic gain with no risk of loss. It has gained possession of an island group it wanted without the loss of a single bullet.

It also is clearer than it was before that President Eisenhower's request for a congressional resolution of support when he defined what the United States would fight for was contrary to what Nationalist China wanted the United States to fight for, because the Nationalists wanted to keep the Tachens.

Consequently, it is beginning to be clear that what was interpreted at home as a declaration of strength was interpreted in both camps of the warring Chinese as a confession of limited intent.

Joseph Alsop, who reported that withdrawal from the Tachens while aboard one of the ships in the flotilla, said sailors who had helped in the withdrawal from Pusan during the Korean war now are talking about Uncle Sam, the "Great Evacuator."

Wolves and Rabbits

The futility of guessing what Russia's dictators are going to do next discourages even editorial writers. But there is one guess about these fellows that can be made safely.

They are even more scared about what comes next than we are.

That could account for their throwing Comrade Malenkov out of the political droshky at this particular time — to take advantage of the tendency of anti-Communists to find deep significance in every Communist move.

But it could be that Malenkov was tossed to the wolves only because the men in the Kremlin could think of nothing else to do to divert attention from the chronic inability of the Communist conspiracy to boost Russian living above the subsistence level after more than a third of a century of trial and error.

Throwing politicians to the wolves is not a Russian invention, after all. It is a standard political procedure, followed by another standard procedure — the lifting of a white rabbit from a silk hat to prove the old political magic is still cooking.

When Stalin shuffled off, the surviving politicians promised that henceforth things would be better. Now that Malenkov has been left behind in a ditch, things are going to be better—and when Bulganin goes, the promise will be repeated.

If the real master mind behind all this is Khrushchev, which is as good a guess as any, he had better come up with something more convincing that another white rabbit.

The combination of political terrorism and state socialism being dished out to the Russians by the conspirators who run the Kremlin isn't giving them what they want or what they need. A million white rabbits can't conceal that from anybody.

Religion In and On the Job

The Miracle Drugs

By Eugene Carr

The old doctor gathered up his medicines, dropped his stethoscope into his bag, and quietly left the sick room. He went to the kitchen where he knew the woman's husband would be waiting for him.

"With the help of God," he said, "she'll pull through!"

That's the scene we've come to associate with the family physician of bygone days. Usually the doctor wasn't called until the illness had become a crisis. All too often there was nothing left for him but to administer his limited supply of drugs and trust in the healing power of nature and a merciful God.

Today, a doctor is still on call day and night but, for the most part, has his cases so well classified he knows in advance when and where he will be needed most. He anticipates an emergency, prescribes preventive measures, hospitalization and clinical care. He draws on the advantages of an age of specialization in his profession and has the benefit of knowledge and skill at his disposal.

THERE IS much evidence that today's doctor is just as conscious of an important partnership with God in his job as was the old-timer.

Dr. Elmer Hess of Erie, Pa., newly elected president of the American Medical Association, states the case for the modern: "A physician who walks into a sick room is not alone. He can only minister to the ailing person with the material tools of scientific medicine. His faith in a higher power does the rest."

Dr. Hess knows he is talking the language of sound-thinking medical men and women throughout the land. He has a supporter in the obstetrician who said recently, "I never step into a delivery room that I don't pause at the door and ask God's help in bringing a new life into the world."

He has supporters in men and women like the doctor whose books revealed, after his death, that he had given away voluntarily more medical service through the years than he had charged for.

HE HAS support in the association of doctors and clergy in their effort to better understand one another's functions and to coordinate their talents in comforting the sick and disabled.

He has support in the atmosphere of the hospital chapel, an instrument of spiritual aid which is becoming more and more important in the lives of doctor and patient.

Dr. Hess is right. A physician does not walk into a sickroom alone. The physician applies the skills of his trade. God applies the "miracle drug" — His power and influence.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

On March 10, 1851, a charter was granted the Franklin & Warren Railroad Co. to construct a road from Franklin, Portage County, with power to continue in a westerly, southwesterly direction. In 1855 the name of the road was changed to Atlantic & Great Western. Ten years later other roads connecting eastward were consolidated and in 1880 it was all sold to the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Co. In Marion County at least $100,000 worth of stock was taken in the road in 1852, the subscription list being headed by Bradford R. Durfee, Ozias Bowen, J. S. Copeland and others at $5,000 each. Considerable grading was done and later some of the subscriptions were repudiated, lawsuits followed and work ceased. All stock was lost by the citizens except what was refused to be paid by a few. The road was finally completed through the county soon after the Civil War.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: So here I am, as that funny little fellow says on the gawk box, and there you are. . . and it's still February. . . and still snowing in all the old familiar places.

It won't be long now until I can spend some days at the sugar camp. I am looking forward to it this year more than usual. Some of the boys have been working out there, getting the evaporators ready, repairing the sap buckets and getting the firewood handy to the sugar house. They also cut down a couple of trees — one that was struck by lightning last August, another that lost its top in a storm early in June. How would you like to come up for a two-day vacation when the sap rises? We could resume our Seven-Up tournament where we abandoned it 30 years ago. Remember old "high, low, jack and the game"?

While waiting for the weather to break for the better (I didn't take those two mild days seriously, by the way) I have been continuing to think about the thing you mentioned in your letter a few weeks ago—the importance of developing individual differences instead of trying to wipe them out.

It reminds me of that classic story about the instructor who told his mixed class of students in France that the difference between men and women actually was very small and was greeted with a chorus—"Vive la difference!"

The differences between people may be small in all respects, but they mark our individualities. And for my money our individualities mark our progress, if any. All progress is made by individuals. It is dreamed of first by individuals. Then it is experimented with by individuals, always to the hoots and catcalls of the stand-patters who hate change.

It is advocated and fought for by individuals, and when the opposition has been backed into a corner—and that, too, is individualism—the new idea is put into practice by individuals. Committees, groups, mobs and masses are helpless and useless. Everything must be conceived of, advocated and administered by individuals.

So it looks to me as if we should be opposed to everything that's calculated to wipe out individuality for the sake of hammering people into the same shape. All our efforts should be in the opposite direction—to develop as much individuality as can be found.

That is why I shiver whenever I hear about attempts to standardize people. My idea of a good society is to have infinite tolerance of infinite differences, then we would get somewhere. Or as your aunt and I have been able to agree on many occasions, a good society is one that guarantees the right to be wrong as firmly as it guarantees the right to be right. Everybody who came forth with a new idea was judged to be wrong at the outset merely because he was different.

So much for theory. There's nothing much else to do in February but theorize. It passes the time.

Did you try the recipe for the sour buckwheat batter? Your aunt says this is the easiest one she ever used, with the best results. One winter long ago when I needed more zippity-zingo than I need now she recalls that she kept a crock of sour buckwheat mix going from mid-November to April Fool's day, without missing a day. I think she is wrong, but it makes a good story.

I am looking forward to some nasty Valentines and hope you will not be disappointed, either. You will be getting what's coming to you in the Monday morning mail. Regards to all.

Red China Is Tail Wagging Soviet Bear

By Leo Gruliow

Soviet relations with China may have had a big part in determining the policy shift which precipitated Georgi Malenkov's resignation as Russian prime minister.

Basic Soviet policy is set by a 10-man Presidium of the Communist party's central committee. This Presidium can make and unmake prime ministers. It is headed by party boss Nikita Khrushchev, and most of its members also hold high government posts in a kind of interlocking directorate of party and government.

Upon Stalin's death this Communist party leadership proclaimed a policy of increasing the output of consumer goods. The new policy was designed to gain popular favor for these successors of Stalin.

Malenkov and another member of the party Presidium, Trade Minister Anastas Mikoyan, became the chief spokesmen of the consumer goods. The new policy proclaimed a new era of abundant food and more radio and television sets, automobiles and refrigerators.

ACTUAL PRODUCTION of consumer goods proceeded unevenly and with many hitches. Farm output remained the greatest difficulty, as Soviet agriculture is a weak underpinning for a powerful heavy industry.

The Communist party central committee thereupon advanced an ambitious program of cultivating vast idle lands in Siberia. Khrushchev himself became the voice of this new plan. This farm - extension plan required some diversion of industrial capacity to production of agricultural machinery.

Meantime, Communist China's belligerent tone and actions increased the possibility of war and demanded the maintenance of heavy armaments against such an eventuality, because Red China is dependent on Russia for planes, tanks and artillery.

Finally, there was increasing talk in the Soviet press of future coordination of the Russian, Chinese and satellite economies.

Red China's goal is to industrialize, and for this she urgently requires steel mills, power plants and all the sinews of industry which would have to come mostly from Russia.

THERE WERE THUS three pressures building up to cancel out the promises of more consumer goods made to the Soviet public: The farm program and its need for machinery, fear of involvement in war and China's demand for heavy industrial equipment.

Last October a delegation of top Soviet leaders, headed by Khrushchev and Bulganin, visited Peiping. Simultaneously, a major article on economic integration of the Communist bloc, pointing up China's desire to industrialize rapidly and Russia's role as industrial supplier, appeared in the central magazine of the Communist party of Russia.

Whether the Chinese confronted the Soviet leaders with demands for more products of Soviet heavy industry can only be guessed. But, two months after Khrushchev's return, the Communist party newspaper Pravda began to point up the need for increased development of heavy industry, rather than higher consumer - goods output. Trade Minister Mikoyan, who had made the loudest promises regarding the consumer - goods program, resigned.

In January Khrushchev personally addressed a meeting of young people leaving Moscow to settle the virgin lands in the east and emphasized the need to develop heavy industry and to build up agriculture's foundations, no matter what the cost in immediate hardships. He hinted that the program of planting new lands should be extended even farther eastward along the border with China.

Malenkov's resignation, with his acceptance of the blame for economic difficulties and particularly for his misjudgment of the state of Russian agriculture, was the next step serving notice to the Soviet people that the Communist party leadership is dropping the emphasis on consumer goods.

The consumer will now have to give way to industrial production, more of which will go into farm machinery, armament and the building up of Red China.

-:-

IT IS PERHAPS significant that Foreign Minister Molotov, in his speech to the Supreme Soviet, spoke of China in more flattering terms than usual. He elevated China from the status of a younger brother to that of full and equal partner. The satellites in the Communist bloc retain a definitely junior role.

Molotov's boastful tone in talking of Soviet atomic progress and the hostility he expressed toward America do not necessarily portend genuine belligerence on Russia's part.

A show of strength is within the normal pattern of Soviet political behavior at moments of internal change and confusion, to reassure the public at home and to allay any impression abroad that things are not going well. The picture of America as a dread foe is essential to Soviet propaganda as a spur to the Soviet people to accept sacrifices demanded of them.

The most important fact is that the Russian - Chinese bloc is embarked upon a big program of industrial and agricultural build-up which will absorb energies for a long time to come. During this period Russia will be unable to embark on any major adventures if she is preoccupied with helping China to industrialize and with storing up her own farm economy.

Whether the Russians can satisfy their Chinese partners' demand for machinery and keep the Chinese from unleashing further conflict in the east are the big questions. China may thus prove to be the tail that is wagging the dog.

The Valentine

Never before or since was there a Valentine like that one. It cost 75 cents, came in its own cardboard box and was a mushy masterpiece of celluloid frillery, colored paper, crimson ribbon and sentiments appropriate to the occasion.

It was a veritable orchid among the garden variety Valentines of its day. Weeks before Feb. 14, it was put on display in the bookstore window, where it remained a focus of adolescent adoration until the wherewithal to buy it had been scraped together a few cents at a time.

Since the demand for 75 - cent Valentines was not brisk, it was the only one of its kind in town, a fact predetermined by the purchaser. The lucky girl who took it from the Valentine box in the seventh grade was going to be the most envied of the fair, besides being the fairest of the fair, just like it said.

This was before there had been any thought of the herd nonsense that came years later when fussbudgety teachers decreed that adoration was to be rationed and made insipid by mass exchanges of Valentines, thereby taking all the meaning out of the woo-pitching that paired off the boys and girls each year as of Feb. 14.

There were girls and boys in the seventh grade that year who received no Valentines. It was tough, no doubt, but it had its uses. It let them know where they stood, and some of them forthwith tried to improve their standing. Moreover, some of them succeeded.

The 75 cents had been well and wisely spent.

She knew by the size of the box that She was the new queen, even before She had removed the treasure it contained. Her soft eyes filled with tears of joy.

Her piquant face quivered with emotion that quickly resolved itself into unalloyed pride of possession. She had THE VALENTINE—the best in town. All that remained to be determined was whether or not pride would be followed by gratitude.

It was. She let Him carry her books home from school that night and encouraged Him to linger at the intersection where She turned to go into Her House. Her soft eyes were tender. Her piquant face was friendly.

Her gratitude was palpably sincere — as palpable as a friendly squeeze of a grimy palm by a ladylike fist. That was only the beginning.

There were many nights to carry books and many lingerings. The 75 cents was the down payment on gilt - edge social security. She was the girl who had received THE VALENTINE and He was the boy who had given it to Her — and let no man put asunder until further notice.

Winter brightened into golden springtime, and springtime ripened into summertime. There was no rift in the lute. Living room furniture was discussed and styles of home architecture.

Her father and mother quit being surprised at the presence of a Son who was willing to be gained if they ever lost a Daughter. There was fudge by twilight, lemonade on Saturday afternoon, bicycle excursions to the city limits and a firm understanding about quid pro quo in all such games as Spin The Pan, Postoffice and Kiss The Pillow.

If only we could think of Her name . . .

Caught Up

RICHLANDS, Va. (AP)—A money order for $27.50 has finally caught up with Douglas Mullins after almost 10 years.

The order, dated Dec. 7, 1944, was mailed to Mullins at Company I, 14th Infantry, Ft. Benning, Ga. It arrived here almost 10 years later in a letter to Postmaster B. P. Lambert from the American consulate in Florence, Italy. The consulate said it got the money order by mail with no explanation except that it was found in the lining of an old army uniform. Postmaster Lambert forwarded it to Mullins, who now lives at Fort Pierce, Fla., and also notified the sender, Marie Buckles.

Daily Bible Thought

"He shall not be afraid of evil tidings." — Psalm 112:7. If we know who will win the last battle, minor set-back need not distress us. With God on our side the final end will be good.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Hand and Pen

"Abraham Lincoln, his hand and pen,
He will be good, but Lord knows when."

The tall, ungainly boy in the backwoods schoolhouse had scribbled it on a piece of paper and shown it to a schoolmate. It would be an historic rhyme, quoted through the generations, but no one would have guessed it then.

"It's a rhyme," said young Abe, as the other boy read it.

"I can rhyme better'n you," said the schoolmate.

"You can't."

"I can so."

-:-

The schoolmaster's approach ended the exchange. "What's going on?" he asked, snatching the paper. He read it, half aloud, to the laughter of the room. . . . "Abraham Lincoln, his hand and pen, he will be good but Lord knows when."

"Never mind scrawlin' foolish things about your hand and pen," said the schoolmaster. "They can be better occupied. No more nonsense!"

The boy was to repeat the lines in a school exercise book destined to be preserved for the ages. Foolish words? How wrong! This was the hand that was to guide the Ship of State through raging waters, to plot the course in perilous seas, to draw up momentous orders and counterorders, to point the way and signal the warnings. This was the hand that was to write the Emancipation Proclamation approve the peace, comfort mothers of slain sons.

"His hand and pen." . . . The pen was to scrawl the immortal Gettysburg Address. . . . From it was to pour the words "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. . . . But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground."

From this hand and pen came matchless phrases to illuminate the darkest days of the republic. . . . "As I would not wish to be a slave so would I not wish another man to be my slave." . . . "The will of God prevails. In great contests each party claims to act in accordance with the will of God. Both may be, one must be, wrong." . . . "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on."

"This government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."

To Mrs. Lydia Bixby "I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which would attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming."

The hand and pen that wrote in a lighter vein "I learned years ago that in a fight between a husband and wife a third party should never get between the woman's skillet and the husband's ax-halfe." . . . And in a desperate hour "McClellan has got the slows."

"Would you kindly tell me what your horses have been doing that would tire anything?"

-:-

The rhyme scrawled on a sheet of paper in a backwoods school was prophetic and the Lord must have found it pleasing. To change it a little:

Abraham Lincoln, his hand and pen,
He would be good and the Lord knew when.

Florida Supreme Court has found constitutional a law of 1951 making it a misdemeanor for hotels and motels to advertise merely minimum rates and requiring their ads to state all rates, give the dates when they are in effect and specify if single or double. "The law does no more than require full disclosure because a partial disclosure of rates, etc., is impregnated with deception," says the court. But, believe it or not, some Florida hotel men's associations denounce the decision and say they will fight for repeal in legislature." How opposed to candor can ya get?

A man who boasts that he is a liar and a perjurer has not only written a book but had it accepted. Quaint folks, we Americans, eh?

Crime Prevention Week in Marion Opens Sunday

National Exchange Clubs Sponsor Event With Approval of FBI

With its 1955 slogan of "Crime prevention starts in the high chair, not in the electric chair," National Crime Prevention Week will be observed beginning Sunday in Marion and throughout the nation.

The National Exchange Club, with its local clubs in the country, is sponsoring the week for the eighth consecutive year.

IN A MEESSAGE to the clubs as they prepare for the observance of the week, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said that the week "can serve to alert the people to the danger confronting us, and its observance should be a reminder that crime prevention is the duty of everyone."

To this end, the local club has named a local crime prevention committee, headed by D. J. Sansotta, to make plans for its local observance. Assisting the chairman is LeRoy Retterer. They were appointed by Joseph G. Shearer, club president.

The sponsors of the week have designated Sunday as "Go - to - Church" Sunday, kicking off the seven-day program to curb crime in the United States.

Sansotta has issued an appeal to everyone in the community to make an honest effort to attend the church of his choice. "We feel that one of the greatest forces working against crime in our nation today is religion. The family that worships together will stay together," he stated.

IN A STATEMENT sent to the national Club office, Hoover told Exchangeites that during the past year, "the cost of lawlessness to society has continued to rise at an alarming rate. One of the first steps needed in order to reverse this trend is a realization of the true magnitude of the evil. No problem can be solved by ignoring it."

At the club's regular luncheon meeting next Friday, local law enforcement officials will join members in a discussion of crime prevention. They include Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith, Probate and Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo, Marion Police Chief Thomas Coon, Cpl. D. M. Dewalt of the state highway patrol, and Sheriff Glenn Obenour.

GOING OVER PLANS for the local observance of National Crime Prevention Week are (left to right) D. J. Sansotta, Joseph G. Shearer and LeRoy Retterer, members of the Exchange Club which is sponsoring the week. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI.

Man Awarded $7,500 by Jury

Farm Trees Damaged In Power Line Erection

A Common Pleas Court jury Friday awarded $7,500 to a Marion County farmer for damages allegedly caused by the Ohio Edison Co. for destroying trees on his place while installing a power line beyond the limits of an easement granted by the farmer.

After a three-hour deliberation, the panel decided that Luther Nickelson and Ellen C. Nickelson of Pleasant Township should be awarded the money.

In his petition, Nickelson claimed that the company had destroyed 86 trees and a considerable amount of shrubs and seedlings in installing the lines. He also claimed his property was badly damaged by heavy equipment being propelled over it.

He asked originally for $5,000 property damages and $10,000 exemplary or punitive damages. However, at the beginning of the trial, the amount of the property damages was reduced to $3,000.

The jury gave in indication how much of the amount awarded was for property damages and how much for punitive damages. Ohio law provides that where it can be shown a firm exceeded its rights in such matters, the plaintiff may be awarded punitive damages, if the jury so decides.

Indian Dress Designer Wins Accolade

Oklahoma Native Makes Fashionable Garments In Authentic Motifs

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Authentic Southwestern fashions, born of the ancient traditions of the Indians and the frontiersmen, are sweeping the country.

But the designers who started it all, out in the Arizona desert, resent what they call claim jumping of Eastern manufacturers who are beginning to turn out mass-produced versions of their colorful squaw dresses and peon skirts.

"These fashions were born in the West," says Lloyd Kiva, Cherokee designer whose custom-made squaw dresses and other Southwestern styles bear upperbracket price tags. "Out here, we know how to make them. They are a modern expression of an ancient primitive art. Imitations always will look phony."

KIVA IS ONE of some 40 members of the Arizona Fashion Council in the towns of Tucson, Phoenix, Wickenburg, Scottsdale, Prescott and Douglas. These are the designers and manufacturers turning out the colorful Southwestern fashions which are becoming as popular in the East as in the West. Arizona designers are glad for Easterners to wear their clothes, but they think the fashions should be made in the West, where they started.

Kiva is a slight, wiry Cherokee Indian who migrated to Phoenix from Oklahoma. He taught arts and crafts to Indian students in the Phoenix school, then started his own design studio and custom clothing business in fashionable Scottsdale, a Phoenix suburb. In Scottsdale, which has preserved the frontier flavor in its rows of handcraft shops, some of the most beautiful original design of the West is being done.

This dedicated designer has a deep and native interest in primitive Indian arts and crafts, and believes an entirely new kind of Indian art soon will emerge, as talented, university-trained artists go back to the reservation.

Kiva designs and prints his own fabrics, and employs assistants from the Hopi Indians whose reservation is nearby. He retains the authentic Indian motifs in most of his designs, and at present is experimenting with the earth colors of the Painted Desert.

SOME OF HIS current collection of dresses have skirts which reproduce the patterns of Navajo rugs in the fabric, others employ Indian motifs such as Navajo sundresses sell for as much as the most elegant fashions shown in Fifth Avenue shops of New York—and visiting Easterners as well as local residents fight for them.

Kiva also does some men's garments, such as shirts and robes from hand-painted fabrics. He prefers to stick to his custom designing and refuses to go into the wholesale manufacture of his clothes. He shrugs expressively, as he says:

"Why should I? I already have two Cadillacs."

INDIAN COUTURIER. Lloyd Kiva, Cherokee designer of Scottsdale, Ariz., adjusts the skirt of a Navajo print sun dress in tones of gray, blue and black on white. He is wearing a shirt of his own design, featuring Arizona earth colors hand-painted by a young Hopi Indian who assists him.

State Bills 'Silver Lode' And Laurel-Hardy Film

"Silver Lode" in technicolor and starring John Payne and Lizabeth Scott, and "Bogus Bandits" with Laurel and Hardy will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday through Thursday are "Valley of the Sun" and "Spanish Main," in technicolor. The former stars Lucille Ball and James Craig and heading the cast in the latter are Paul Henreid and Maureen O'Hara.

Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall are stars of "Lucky Losers" which will be the main attraction of a double feature Friday and Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Overland Telegraph" with Tim Holt and Gail Davis.

'Johnny Dark' at Marion With 'Carbine Williams'

"Carbine Williams" starring James Stewart, Jean Hagen and Wendell Corey, and "Johnny Dark" with Tony Curtis, Piper Laurie and Don Taylor, will open in a midnight show tonight at the Marion Theater and play through Monday.

The former is David Marshall Williams' story, the story of a man who was instrumental in the invention of the carbine rifle developed by Winchester. Williams conceived the idea for the carbine while serving a sentence for manslaughter in a Southern prison. The story of "Johnny Dark" concerns the efforts of a young automotive engineer to create a sports car model for the conservative motor company which employs him. His romance with the young stylist assigned to him, his rivalry with a roughneck test driver, and the border-to-border sports car race provide the action.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Above and Beyond" and "Glory Alley." The former, an emotional drama and love story, co-stars Robert Taylor and Eleanor Parker, while the latter features Ralph Meeker and Leslie Caron.

"Above and Beyond" tells the story of the best kept secret of World War II, as seen through the eyes of the woman whose husband was charged with a terrible responsibility. Robert Taylor portrays Colonel Paul W. Tibbets who was assigned the task of testing and perfecting the experimental B 29 and who later was selected from thousands of Air Force experts to train the secret group destined to drop the first atomic bomb in history. The latter is a drama of a prizefighter and a New Orleans dancing girl.

Humphrey Bogart co-stars with June Allyson in "Battle Circus," the main attraction of the double feature billed for Thursday through Saturday. It is a love story of a surgeon with an American Mobile Army Surgical Hospital unit and of a nurse who joins the unit behind the Korean battle lines.

Completing the billing will be "Tanganyika" with Van Heflin, Ruth Roman and Howard Duff.

Deaths Topped by Births In Bucyrus During 1954

BUCYRUS — Births exceeded deaths in Bucyrus during 1954 by nearly 300 per cent, Miss Estelle Pfleidererer, city health nurse and registrar of vital statistics, announced today.

A decrease was noted last year in both birth and death totals, Miss Pfleidererer pointed out. Births totaled 450 against 473 in 1953 while deaths totaled 169 compared with 184 in 1953. In 1952, there were 447 births and 156 deaths.

The busiest month for births was in October when 49 were recorded and the lowest was February with 29. Twenty-one deaths occurred in both January and December and the fewest deaths occurred in September when seven were reported.

Cooper, Lancaster, Romero Are Stars Of Film at Palace

Gary Cooper, Burt Lancaster, Cesar Romero and Denise Darcel are stars of the adventure drama in technicolor and superscope, "Vera Cruz," which is the current attraction at the Palace Theater. It will play through Wednesday along with "The Javanese Dagger," another in a series of featurettes entitled "Calling Scotland Yard" and starring Paul Douglas as the story-teller.

"Vera Cruz" is the story of two American freebooters on the loose in Mexico in 1866. Cooper as Benjamin Trane, an American adventurer, meets Joe Erin, played by Burt Lancaster, who invites Trane to join his gang of renegades and fight on the side that offers the most money.

The two men are urged to fight for the rebels and also are asked to fight for the Emperor. At the Emperor's ball, they encounter the Countess Marie Duvarre (Denise Darcel) who asks them to accompany her on a journey to Vera Cruz. En route she reveals that she is carrying gold to the Emperor's forces, and agrees to steal it and split it three ways.

The story in "The Javanese Dagger" deals with a once-beautiful woman's lust for revenge which almost costs the life of the lovely young girl she is determined to destroy.

Billed for Thursday through Saturday is another double feature, "Bad Day at Black Rock" and "The White Orchid." The former, in Cinemascope and color, stars Spencer Tracy and Robert Ryan, and heading the cast in the latter are William Lundigan and Peggie Castle.

In "Bad Day at Black Rock," the story tells what happens when a man arrives unannounced in a desolate desert town and finds himself thrust into a suspenseful and murderous crisis not of his own making. It is concerned with the attempt of its hoodlum leaders to at first frighten him off from his mission, then to liquidate him.

The story in "The White Orchid" concerns an archeologist who requests a photographer to aid him during his search for the lost Toltec civilization in Mexico. To his amazement, the photographer is a beautiful blonde.

FRIED GRASSHOPPERS

Cheating Widespread

Soviet Press Campaigns Against Crooks in Trade

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—A concerted press campaign is under way to expose and weed out the thousands of crooks and cheaters in Soviet trade and industry.

The newspaper Trud, organ of the Soviet Central Trade Unions Council, reports that in the Georgian city of Tiflis alone 800 store managers or store clerks were reprimanded for "violating the rules of Soviet trade."

Most were accused of charging higher than fixed prices, then pocketing the profits; of outright embezzlement of funds from state stores or industries; or of such tricks as refusing to givt a shop customer or a trolley car rider change from a payment.

On a single day denunciations of cheaters and chiselers in trade appeared in two of the most powerful papers in the country—Trud and in Soviet Trade, official organ of the Ministry of Internal Trade.

It is difficult for Westerners to comprehend the Soviet trade setup. All Soviet industry, and all stores and shops, are owned and operated by the state. The minister of internal trade, until recently A. I. Mikoyan, is theoretically responsible for every thimble, needle or spool of thread sold to any peasant woman or fisherman from Riga on the Baltic to Vladivostok on the Sea of Japan.

The minister of internal trade manages a chain of stores serving 220 million customers. And he is responsible for all his many thousands of employes.

In the same way, the Soviet minister of transport is the boss of every bus conductor or taxi driver from Moscow to Pinsk who tries to cheat his customer out of honest change.

In such a monolithic system there are many opportunities for graft. Anybody who thinks there isn't plenty of graft in this country should read the Soviet press as it indulges in "self-criticism".

The newspapers put much blame on the trade unions and the police for not publicizing cases of cheating and making examples of violators to strengthen discipline.

Actress Ona Munson Found Dead in Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Ona Munson, 48, former stage and screen star, was found dead yesterday in her apartment, apparently from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Miss Munson, who climbed to stardom via vaudeville, left a note reading: "This is the only way I know to be free again . . . Please don't follow me."

Police, quoting friends as saying she recently had been ill and despondent, listed her death as suicide pending an autopsy.

She was found dead in bed by her third husband, stage designer Eugene Berman. He had left her in the morning, seemingly asleep, and had returned to their West 86th St., home in the afternoon to take her shopping.

FOREIGN RELIEF TOTAL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Church World Service, representing major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations, says it shipped 30,648,792 pounds of food, clothing and medical supplies, worth more than 12 million dollars, to needy people abroad in 1954.

Livestock Group's Annual Meeting Is Slated Wednesday

Annual meeting of the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association will be held Wednesday night at the Pleasant School. James Smoot, manager of the market, reported today.

Main speaker will be C. L. Harrison, chaplain of the Boys Industrial School in Lancaster. He is president of the National Association of Training School Chaplains, a member of the advisory committee of the Methodist Commission of Chaplains in Washington, and vice president of the Ohio Chaplains Association.

Special music during the evening will be furnished by a group from Claridon School directed by Mrs. Robert L. Waldbauer.

A report on marketing activities at the local stockyards will be made by Smoot and comments will be made by departmental heads of the Eastern Broker Buying Co. of Columbus.

They include Howard Davidson of the swine department, H. M. Leitnacker of the cattle division and Walter Findlay of the sheep department.

Four new members to the advisory board will be elected. Color slides will be shown and explanations given on the new swine improvement program now being conducted in Ohio and Indiana.

All patrons of the local Producers market are invited to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

REPORT ON POLIO DRIVE

SYCAMORE — The March of Dimes report for the village of Sycamore is now complete with a total of approximately $940 contributed. Of this $150.89 was collected in the school cards and $75.51 was given by the bowling leagues at Bowlmor bowling alleys. The rest was from personal solicitations and from organizations and churches. The township report is to date incomplete.

There are eight kinds of blind fish in America, some of which have only traces of eyes.

Ban on Mailing Of Subversive Matter Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal that subversive publications be banned from the United States mails came yesterday from the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The house committee, issuing its 1954 annual report, also called for laws which would make it a crime for anyone to carry a secret government document in interstate commerce without authorization, and require any person bidding on a government contract to swear he hasn't belonged during the past decade to any organization advocating forceful overthrow of the government.

The Red-hunting committee itself cannot write legislation. It must depend instead on other committees to follow up its recommendations if they see fit. It was headed by Rep. Velde (R-Ill) last year.

The recommended mail ban would apply to "subversive publications"—not specified in the report—whether they come from inside the country or outside. It did not say who should have the authority to declare them subversive. The publications would be denied second-class mailing privileges, under which most newspapers and magazines are mailed.

Canadian Financier Buys Toronto Globe and Mail

TORONTO (AP)—R. Howard Webster, 45-year-old Canadian financier, took over today as new owner of the Toronto Globe and Mail, Canada's biggest morning newspaper.

Webster announced last night he was the successful bidder for the 111-year-old paper at a purchase price believed considerably in excess of 10 million dollars. It was reportedly the largest transaction in Canadian newspaper history.

Webster said he planned no changes and expressed hope all employes would remain.

March of Power

By George Sokolsky

As in the rise of Stalin, so in the emergence of Khrushchev, the power of the Communist Party in Soviet Russia transcends the power of the state. The error that is often made in American thinking about Russian affairs is that we assume that the Russian government is supreme in that country, whereas as a matter of Marxian procedure it is the Party which speaks for the dictatorship of the proletariat and therefore the Party is the master.

SOKOLSKY

When Stalin died, the government was placed under the collective leadership of three appointed by the Party, that is, Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. Beria was killed; Molotov was reduced to a mouthpiece. Malenkov, however, never knew supreme power. He divided his authority, under democratic centralism, with Khrushchev who had became First Secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party. Now Khrushchev divided his authority with nobody.

—:—

FROM NOW ON orthodox Stalinism will prevail. This means that those who deviate in thought and action will find no place in the Soviet government or the Communist Party. A Philipov wrote of this attitude:

". . . during the early 1930's Stalin ordered the full exposure of 'everything irreconcilable with Bolshevism,' such as its 'falsification,' 'contraband Trotskyism,' 'corrupt liberalism,' and called for 'revolutionary vigilance.' Unfortunately we have no statistics showing the number of 'Marxists' who suddenly became 'non-Marxists,' 'insufficiently Marxist,' or 'unauthentic Marxists.' One thing can be said with confidence: The vast majority of Soviet Marxists fell into these categories. Alarm and terror seized all Soviet Marxists. . ."

MALENKOV HAD accepted the success of Soviet Russia as offering an opportunity to give the Russian people a happier, a gayer, a freer life. He even permitted considerable criticism of the past and abolished the edification of Stalin. Such a paragraph as follows, written by a noted biologist, need not have been written during the Malenkov period:

"My own work has been carried on in a country where the protection given to science by our own Party, by our government, by our dearly-beloved, our own father, Comrade Stalin, is boundless . . . works of this kind (can be produced) only in a Soviet country where advanced science is taken care of by the Party and government and is guided by our leader, dear Stalin, greatest scholar, beloved of all. I express profound, most heartfelt thanks to our great teacher and friend, most brilliant of all scholars, Coryphaeus of advanced science, dear Stalin. His teaching, each of his statements on problems of science has been for me a working program and colossal support in my long and difficult struggle against the idealists. The leadership of Comrade Stalin helped me to emerge as victor in this struggle."

Instead Ilya Ehrenburg wrote his novel, "The Thaw," which is a criticism of the icy - cold conformism of the Stalin period. Now we shall return to the iron hand of rigid conformism, of a line handed down, in all fields of life, by Khrushchev, and everybody will have to conform. Malenkov apparently hoped for a measure of intellectual freedom; the party now asserts its right to control the mind of every Russian.

AS THIS AFFECTS the United States, the doctrine of peaceful co-existence takes on altogether a new meaning. The Communists specialize in phraseology. The term, peaceful co-existence, can mean anything. The United States had hoped to discover a method of living at peace with Russia and the Eisenhower policy has undoubtedly been oriented in that direction, with popular support.

What does Khrushchev mean by peaceful co-existence? This he made clear in Molotov's prolonged speech, following the forced resignation of Malenkov. Molotov said:

"United States aggressive circles have miscalculated once again. . .

"The matter has progressed so far that in the production of the hydrogen weapon the Soviet people have achieved such a success that it is not the Soviet Union but the United States which is in the position of laggard."

In a word, the aggressor was defined as the United States and this country was threatened by reprisals. Therefore what Khrushchev's "peaceful co-existence" can mean is that the United States accept Russia's program for the conquest of Asia and the unification of Germany or accept such consequences as Russia chooses to mete out. This then is what we face and Khrushchev was not slow to tell us. He did it, through Molotov, on the day of his rise to supreme power. To it, we must adjust our thinking.

New Era

By Victor Riesel

America's "Sixty Families" must now move over to make room for the boys from the other side of the tracks — the new family of labor. The just - wedded AFL and CIO will inevitably become the single most influential industrial and political force in the land within a few years.

VICTOR RIESEL

Even without the millions of additional members the merged labor federation will pick up in the organizing drives it will soon unleash in the south and southwest, it has great power.

The coalition has over 15 million members who will provide its national headquarters with $7,200,000 annually, mostly for organizing work.

At the same time, the new Council of Industrial Organization department will have an additional $3,600,000 a year for its own budget and its own organizing campaigns, probably directed by Walter Reuther.

-:-

THIS MEANS A TOTAL of almost 11 million dollars as a yearly operational budget for the new organization.

The combined AFL-CIO will be based on some 65,000 local unions in at least 825 cities. These locals are affiliated with 143 nation-wide unions with a total annual dues income of almost half a billion dollars. A conservative estimate of their assets would hit the 2 billion dollar mark.

The new labor movement will be led by the 60-year-old New Yorker, George Meany who now becomes one of the world's most important and influential statesmen. Meany's influence in the federation is overwhelming. It springs from his skill as a personal leader.

It was Meany — with his ability to meditate, to bring opposing forces together, to wade through myriad details and to side-step conflicting ambitions of other dynamic labor chiefs — who sparked the merger.

Under Meany, the united labor federation will be an uncompromising, hard-hitting, anti-Communist juggernaut at home and on the international front. It will become one of the nation's most powerful allies against the Russians who try to create all world labor in their own Soviet image.

The new coalition will be just as tough on the organizing front. It will launch drives in the newer industries — peace - time atomic plants, chemicals, plastics, electronics, "automaticity" — as well as in the old mass industries. Its goal will be another 10 million members. Its future frontiers will be the southern states.

THESE UNIONIZING campaigns, which Walter Reuther predicts will begin a "new period of labor dynamism," await only the appointment of a young and energetic national organizer. He will be picked by the CIO people. They seek someone who will revive the early CIO days of 1936-37 when labor cracked the heavy industries with a wave of strikes.

The organizing drives will go after big and small businesses. Executives in the mass industries will be faced by mass unions or an amalgamation of two or three unions which blanket the field.

In the electrical field, for example, the AFL's International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the CIO's International Union of Electrical Workers have a joint membership of 900,000. They are led by young and dynamic men. The unions already have a working pact. The big electrical companies will find them one tough adversary — instead of two feuding rival outfits as in the past.

There will be even bigger combines. For the past few weeks down in Miami Beach, Dave McDonald, leader of 1¼ million steel workers, and Dave Beck, leader of 1½ million teamsters, have been talking steadily — and secretly. They plan joint drives. This will throw a combination of almost 3 million men against any industrial opponent who stands up against them. Their union funds are adequate, I hear tell.

-:-

THE TEAMSTERS UNION will be the backbone of a score of campaigns in partnership with unions which deal with small businesses. They are going after meat markets, department and retail stores, service stations, and millions of white collar workers — in coalition with the machinists, the retail clerks, the butcher workers and many others. These organizing pacts have been signed.

Watch especially for a new multi-million dollar drive by a new union to be launched in the white collar-retail field.

So it is inevitable that after the formal AFL and CIO merger later this year, the individual unions will also begin to merge until the smaller ones disappear.

The joining of the AFL and CIO is not just the return of some unions to the fold. It is the end of one era. It is the beginning of a period in history when labor swaps the lunchbox for the brief-case.

On Lincoln

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

Suppose you were on a quiz show tonight and the master of ceremonies asked:

"What American president was born in a log cabin in Kentucky 146 years ago today? Here are a few hints: His mother was Nancy Hanks. He was nicknamed Honest Abe'. He wore a beard. His wife was Mary Todd. He freed the slaves. And—listen closely to this final tipoff—he was shot by an actor named John Wilkes Booth.'

HAL BOYLE

The typical quiz show contestant might answer doubtfully, "Was it McKinley?"

But not you. You'd know the right answer—Abraham Lincoln.

Suppose then the MC said:

"Wonderful! Wonderful! Now you have a shot at the final $999,999.99 jackpot question. Please listen carefully. Lincoln was one of the most eloquent Americans who ever lived. He wrote or spoke millions of words. Can you repeat just one single sentence ever written or spoken by this famous man who now belongs to the ages? You have 30 seconds."

—:—

WELL, IF YOU are an average American here is what would happen:

"Sure, that's easy—the old Gettysburg address. I learned that in school. Know it by heart. Couldn't forget it if I tried."

"Just give us one quick sentence then," purrs the MC.

"Four score and seven years ago —" You begin, "our fathers. No, I think he said forefathers. Yes, he must have said forefathers. Four score and seven years ago our forefathers . . . our forefathers . . . our forefathers . . . our forefathers . . . our."

And then you would simply stand there tongue-tied while the clock ticked away your chances for that $999,999.99.

Maybe your teen-age high school kid could answer the question. But you are an unusual American adult if you can recite a single complete sentence that Lincoln would recognize as his own.

—:—

I MADE THE TEST on five grownups in various walks of life —a writer, a secretary, a skilled workman, a housewife, a Negro maid. The results might be annoying to Carl Sandburg, who has spent more time on Lincoln's speeches than Lincoln did himself. But I think they'd bring a dry chuckle from old Abe.

All five of those polled flunked flatly. None could recall a complete sentence by Lincoln.

"Four score and seven years ago—" nearly all five knew that. But then came the stumbling block. Did Abe say "our fathers" or "our forefathers?" And what did he say after that?

—:—

THERE IS probably no other memorable sentence in the English language in quite such a predicament—begins with a figure—87—expressed in an odd way that sticks in people's minds. But they forget the sonorous, organ-toned phrase with which that immortal sentence concludes, couching the loftiest idea of government ever to arise in the mind of man.

Honest Abe would probably get another chuckle out of how the five people polled ranked him in our country's history.

The writer and the secretary classed him as our greatest President.

The housewife and the maid thought Franklin D. Roosevelt was the greatest, Lincoln second.

"Lincoln was greater in some things," said the maid. "But he wasn't up to Roosevelt in other ways."

The skilled workman thought George Washington, the first President was tops, President Eisenhower was the next greatest and Lincoln was maybe third or fourth.

Now back to the Gettysburg address. Did Lincoln say "fathers" or "forefathers"?

This is the opening sentence in the version now accepted as official:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Naturally, you remember how the rest of it goes. Or do you? Don't bet on it

Lincoln himself wasn't sure. Five copies of the Gettysburg address exist in Abe's own handwriting. And the words vary.

The fifth copy, which sold for $54,000 in 1949, is now regarded as the best. Old Abe knew how to take a good thing and make it better.

Local Man Gets Permit To Sell Beer and Wine

Permits to sell beer and wine for off-premise consumption were issued Friday by the State Department of Liquor Control to C. A. Bolin of 182 Patten St. One permit is for the sale of 3.2 per cent beer and another for the sale of high-powered beer and wine.

Bolin had filed his application with the liquor department Oct. 26, 1954. The permit was issued because the number of permits here was below the number of permits in existence when the state's "freeze" on permits was instituted in 1952.

Columbus Man Asks $231,610 In Court Action

Cross Petition, Counter Claims Filed in Fatal Accident Damage Suit

A cross petition and two other damage suits amounting to $231,610 were filed in Common Pleas Court Friday against the guardian of an Edison man who last month sued a Columbus man for $102 500

The suits are the result of a fatal accident last Aug 15 at the intersection of Routes 30-S and 37 west of Marion Last month, Mrs Mary Ireland of Edison, appointed guardian of Roy D Ireland following the accident, sued Harry Sells of Columbus for $102,500 for injuries her son Roy, received in the accident In that petition, she charged that Sells had failed to obey a stop sign on Route 37 causing the accident which resulted in her son losing his reasoning powers.

Friday, Sells filed a cross petition on his own behalf asking $78 274 for injuries he received He also filed petitions as the administrator of the estate of his wife, Katharina, who was killed in the mishap, and for his daughter, also named Katharina, aged two, for injuries she received.

The petition he filed as executor of the estate of his wife asked for $75 995 while the petition for his daughter asked for $77,341

In all his petitions, Sells claimed Ireland failed to maintain control of his vehicle, travelled at a speed in excess of 65 miles per hour drove astride the center line of the highway, failed to watch for approaching traffic, failed to swerve his auto to avoid the collision and operated his auto without regard for the rights and safety of other motorists

At the time of the mishap, Ireland was eastbound on Route 30-S while Sells and his family were southbound on 37.

Sells claims he suffered injuries to the brain and skull which are permanent and still cause him pain. In his petition on behalf of his daughter, he claims she suffered several broken bones, internal injuries and facial lacerations which will require plastic surgery to repair, and that other injuries sutained by her were permanent

In the petition as administrator of his wife s estate he claims the amount he asks is for financial loss and funeral expenses incurred by her death

Marion County To Join 'Freedom Week' Crusade

Marion County is joining the nation in marking Freedom Week" beginning today and extending through Feb 22 During this period the Crusade for Freedom will make a concerted drive for moral support and 'Truth Dollars' to help Radio Free Europe combat the Society grip on people behind the Iron Curtain

Robert T Mason Marion County chairman of the Crusade said the national goal of the Crusade is to enlist the support of millions of Americans to assure the continued operation of Radio Free Europe

"FREEDOM WEEK" which includes the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, 'gives these holidays added significance this year" Mason said 'Both of these great men knew the battle for men's minds and how the truth makes men free, but history has never known a battle such as that being waged right now by the free world against the lies and treachery of the Kremlin

"On the front line in this fight is Radio Free Europe and the truth it brings to 70,000,000 people in the captive countries on the Soviet doorstep It is a powerful factor in keeping alive their courage, their will to resist and the hope of freedom

Radio Free Europe is operated as an independent American enterprise backed by private citizens As such, it has proved a most effective efficient and economical weapon for combating Soviet Communism'

SINCE THE establishment in 1950 of the first transmitter Radio Free Europe has now grown into a network of 29 powerful transmitters and relay stations broadcasting around the clock to Central and Eastern Europe

President Eisenhower, active in the Crusade while still in private life, has this year again urged all Americans to join 'this independent American enterprise dedicated to strengthening the will-to-freedom overseas" to be moved from the old city hall This is because extensive remodeling is still to be done in the new City Hall to convert the old dining and laundry rooms into a courtroom and judge s and clerk s offices

Tearing down of the old annex building which extends west along Superior St from the main building will start Monday and is expected to be completed within 30 to 60 days Safety-Service Director John Davis said

Mayor Robinson said that all possible materials from the annex building will be saved for future use by the city

He expressed the hope that the materials including lumber, asbestos shingles, roofing, concrete building blocks, and a hot-water furnace and heating system may be used to build a new city barn The present facilities on Owens St are in poor condition, he said

THE DRIVE-IN pay window for Garbage Department customers will be installed in the end of a portion of the annex building which will remain standing It is the portion which contained the ramp leading down from the first floor level of the main building to the annex floor level Large double doorways at the bottom of the ramp will be removed and a drive-in pay window will be installed at this point, Mayor Robinson said

Workmen last week installed a level floor in a part of this extension and the Sanitation Department office will be housed in the space made available

Mayor Robinson said that this pay window probably will be in operation in about 60 days, after a new driveway is constructed leading north off Superior St past the drive-in window and connecting with other existing drives at the rear of the building.

PERSONS paying garbage and refuse collection bills will be notified on their next bills that payments may be made at two downtown banks as well as at the City Hall Payments, beginning with the next bill, may be made at the National City Bank and its West Town Branch and at the Marion County Bank, Mayor Robinson said

In addition to the drive-in window, persons wishing to will be able to pay their garbage bills inside the building at a counter in the entrance to the Sanitation Department office, Mayor Robinson said

Experts Study Budget

Red Shift Back to Heavy Industry Called Just Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department fiscal experts reported a belief today the Russians have made virtually no changes in their economy despite all the r talk of a shift back to heavy industry

This finding is based on careful analysis of the new Soviet budget for the 1955 calendar year The budget was presented last week to the same Soviet parliamentary session which saw Georgi Malenkov succeeded by Nikolai Bulganin as premier

Budget Is Higher

The budget of 562 900 000 000 rubles exceeds last year s total by 200 million rubles, the lowest increase since World War II The official exchange rate is four rubles for $1, but the rate varies with the transaction and sometimes goes to 20 for $1

The U S specialists see in the slight increase a sign that Soviet economists are adopting a more realistic attitude clamping down on any inflationary trends, and juggling figures so as to imply stepped-up defense spending to back up tough talk

The Russian budget breaks down into four broad categories, with an unexplained fund left over The four categories are cost of running the government, social and cultural programs, such as education, national economy factors like construction of buildings, and direct defense costs such as guns and planes

Some for Research

Total increases in these four categories came to 12 per cent But the budget as a whole showed virtually no increase This meant that the 12 per cent boost came out of the unspecified residual funds

About half of this unmarked fund provides money for research and development — including nuclear weapons and jet planes.

Since most of the money shift apparently came from this fund the experts in Washington believe some research and development project must have moved into the production stage

However they are wary of any Soviet bookkeeping As a rule of thumb they figure half of the total budget goes in some way or another toward defense costs For instance, housing for soldiers would come under the national economy section rather than under defense

Despite the Soviet announcement of a new emphasis on heavy industry, which is the basis for a heavy war machine, American experts consider the Kremlin has never abandoned its goals in this field under the five-year plan expiring next December What has happened, they say, is that during Malenkov's regime some emphasis was placed also on consumer goods

The Russian economists apparently found the double load too heavy to bear At any rate consumer goods goals were not met and apparently will be lowered this year.

Tachens

conduct however since the Reds by their inaction stood to gain possession of the islands without firing a shot in assault

The State Department announced last night the Tachens operation had been completed, but said U S. forces assigned to it would continue to 'be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces" preparing for an attack on Formosa, the Nationalist Chinese stronghold.

The U. S forces "will now resume their normal operations" the announcement said But they will 'be prepared to take appropriate military action if required by Communist moves "obviously undertaken to facilitate attack upon Formosa . "

The powerful U S 7th Fleet under orders to provoke no incidents but to meet force with force has been busy for the last week helping with evacuation of Nationalist civilians and military forces from the Tachen Islands about 200 miles north of Formosa

What had been feared most here was that the Reds, despite the risks involved, might try to make a limited show of force to embarrass the United States with loss of ships or planes or personnel

The fact they did not do so tended to harden the beliefs of those who contend the Communist powers do not want war with the United States, and that they will back down when confronted with a real show of force

How much bearing this has on China's future conduct is speculative But it has led some officials to strengthen their belief that sooner or later the Communists will accept as beyond question the Chinese Nationalist control of Formosa and will concentrate their efforts to obtain the Nationalist held coastal islands through peaceful diplomacy.

Harding, St. Mary Quintets Capture Cage Victories

Presidents Whip Fostorians 63-52; Hit Newark Tonight

FOSTORIA — A fired up crew of Harding Prexies grabbed an early lead, then held it the rest of the way to upset favored Fostoria 63-52 here Friday night.

The win avenged an earlier 79-63 drubbing at the hands of the Redmen this season and snapped a four-game losing streak for the ailing Prexies. Fostoria's season record now stands at 5-9.

Coach Jim Lawler's cagers take their 5-11 slate against Newark tonight on the Harding gym floor as they return home for a three-game stand. Shelby will be at Marion Tuesday and Fremont hits town Friday. The visitors, three times state champions and runners-up to Middletown in 1953, carry a 10-7 mark into tonight's fray after whipping Lancaster 75-48 last night.

Marksmanship from the field and defensive play played a big part in the Harding win. The Prexies clicked on 40 per cent of the shots from the floor in the foul-filled contest while Bob Messner, in his first starting role since early in the season, and Ted Bibler gave Harding control of both boards and Joe Snouffer turned in a bang-up game. Snouffer consistently stole the ball from the Redmen before fouling out in the final period.

HARDING jumped into a quick 4-2 lead when Bibler hit from the field and remained in front throughout the tilt. Fostoria kept on Harding's heels during the first period but the Prexies steadily pulled away in the next three quarters.

Messner and Neikirk traded foul shots and then Messner hit from the field twice before the Prexies and Redmen traded baskets during the remainder of the opening quarter to leave Harding on the long end of a 19-16 score.

Chuck Jackson fired away from the field to cut the Harding margin to 19-18 at the start of the second period but Harding quickly took a 25-18 lead when Messner and Carlisle hit from the field and upped it to 30-22 at the half way halt.

The locals maintained their lead in the third period and took a 46-36 bulge into the final stanza. Harding worked into a 54-43 lead when Bibler connected on a jump shot and then sealed the win when he followed with another bucket and Jed Middleton pushed in a pair of fouls with 2:55 to go for a 58-44 margin.

Messner pumped in 18 points to pace the Prexy attack while Snouffer was next in line with 11. Bibler chipped in with 10, Gene Armstrong moved into a starting role to hit for eight and Lowell Carlisle added seven.

Neikirk, Fostoria's leading scorer, led the Fostoria scoring with 18 points. Chuck Jackson added 14. Bob Shaw and Tony Nixon, who had combined for 35 points against the Prexies in the first meeting, hit for only a total of nine last night. Shaw had been a consistant double figure scorer for the Redmen along with Neikirk and Jackson. Fostoria was credited with only a 22 per cent shooting average from the floor.

LAST NIGHT'S tussle was marked by 85 foul shots. Officiating was tight and close, with Fostoria netting 24 points from the foul lane and Harding collecting 17. In addition to Snouffer, Armstrong also left on personals in the final stanza while Bibler and Carlisle each had four and Messner and Firstenberger three apiece at game's end. Chuck Jackson was the only Redman to leave the floor on personals and no other Fostoria cager was in danger foul-wise.

Harding's reserves, hurt by the loss of Messner and Phil Sykes to the varsity squad, posted a 28-23 win in the preliminary. The Vice Presidents pulled away in the second half to achieve the victory after both squads battled to a 10-10 deadlock in the first half. Wilson with nine points and Bob Shaffer with eight topped the Harding scoring.

Pairings Set For Tourney Action Here

Caledonia and Waldo are paired in the opening tilt of the 1955 Marion County cage tournament at the Coliseum Monday evening.

The Donians and Waldo will take the court at 5:30 p.m. in the first of four tourney tilts on tap that night.

The county squads were paired last night in drawings held at the home of Ivan Barnhart, assistant county superintendent of schools.

Prospect is scheduled to oppose Pleasant in the second contest at 6.45 p.m. while LaRue takes on Meeker at 8 p.m. and Claridon goes against Martel at 9.15 p.m. in other tourney openers Monday night.

Coach Len Walls' Donians and LaRue, co-champions in county league play with 9-1 marks, earned the right to be placed in opposite brackets by retaining their league positions in the final loop session last night.

Caledonia is in the same bracket with Prospect while LaRue has Claridon to contend with in its way to the finals. The Donians can reach the tourney semi-finals by whipping Waldo and Green Camp while Prospect has Morral in its patch following Pleasant.

LaRue has Meeker and New Bloomington as its first two tourney opponents and Claridon has an opportunity to gain the semi-finals by whipping Martel.

Green Camp, Morral and New Bloomington received byes in the drawings last night. The first two squads are scheduled for opening action Thursday while New Bloomington waits until Saturday night for its first taste of tourney competition.

Buckeyes' Star Ordered From Play on Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robin Freeman, the nation's No. 2 high average collegiate basketball player, yesterday was withdrawn from competition by Ohio State University.

Athletic Director Dick Larkins said the action was taken upon advice of the university's medical staff. Larkins said Freeman had been weakened by recurrent colds, and an aggravated ankle injury and that his condition "is such that it was deemed inadvisable to permit him to play in the remaining games of this season."

Coach Floyd Stahl, whose Buckeyes play Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., tonight, said:

"Certainly we hate to lose Robin from the squad, but naturally we are more concerned about the welfare of the young man, I am sure this action is to his best interest."

Freeman has scored 409 points in 16 games this year and 167 in the Big Ten race. As an all-Ohio scholastic star, at Cincinnati Hughes, he averaged 39.4 as a senior. Freeman is a junior at Ohio State, is only five feet, 11 inches tall, and weighs 156 pounds.

Claridon and Prospect End Race in Tie for Third Spot

LaRue and Caledonia wound up as co-champs in the Marion County League cage race with easy victories over their foes Friday night and today were awaiting action in the county tournament which opens Monday night at the Marion Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Coach Ted Dennison's Indians pounded New Bloomington while Caledonia had an easier time with Martel to finish with identical 9-1 league marks.

Claridon moved back into a tie for the runner-up spot momentarily acquired by Prospect when it beat Morral Thursday night by routing Waldo to run its league mark to 8-2 and Pleasant edged Meeker out of the next position in the only other league tilt last night. Green Camp, which had completed its league schedule last week, downed its alumni.

LaRue Shares Title

LaRue's co-leaders invaded New Bloomington to smother the hosts 80-51 and maintain their first place roost.

Coach Ted Dennison's squad zoomed out front 31-14 and had no trouble from New Bloomington the rest of the way.

The Indians enjoyed a 46-20 bulge at intermission and were in command 64-26 at the three-quarter mark. The losers managed to outscore LaRue in the final frame but New Bloomington's total failed to noticeably dent the winners' bulge.

Larry Hickman tossed in 28 points to lead the LaRue attack. The cluster gave him 223 points for 10 county league tilts, 16 less than the mark set by Prospect's Bob Rodgers, the county loop's 1955 scoring leader with 239. Ray Hosey came in with 17 to boost his league scoring total to 173.

Roger Boles was New Bloomington's most consistent scorer with 20 points. It gave the one time county loop offensive leader 189 points in league play. Jack Brinkley added 10.

LaRue posted a 48-31 triumph in the preliminary as Cooper collected 12 points and Wynn hit for 10. Schaber was high for the losers with seven.

Coach Len Walls played his varsity during the opening period and then called on his reseves who took over until midway in the final period.

The winners picked up a 30-6 lead in the first eight minutes of play and outscored Martel in each of the next three quarters to post the lop sided win. Caledonia walked off the floor at halftime with a 50-22 bulge and led 71-21 at the start of the final quarter.

Six players hit in double figures for the Donians with Raymond Ulsh's 12 leading the pack. Jerry Gorby, Caledonia's top county league scorer in previous tilts with 140, netted 11. Gene Rice, who was pressing Gorby with 136, and Raymond Walker, Ronnie Gist and Hill all added 10 apiece. Moodespaugh was Martel's top scorer with eight markers. Kenny Barden and Phil Leathem, Martel's big guns who had been averaging 13 points a game in county loop play, hit for only four and two respectively.

Mount Gilead Rallies To Clip Crestline 54-51

MOUNT GILEAD — Mount Gilead's defending district champs were forced to come from behind in the final stanza and salvage a 54-51 triumph over Crestline here Friday night.

A bucket by Gene Brush after Jim Sweeney dropped in a free throw which tied the score at 49-49 with two minutes remaining gave the Indians a lead they held to the final gun. The taller Crestline club, coached by former Mount Gilead pilot Les Grace, held a seven point bulge late in the third period before the winners trimmed it to 43-49 at the close of the stanza.

Coach Frank Truitt's charges jumped into a 21-9 first period lead but their attack faltered in the second period and the Bulldogs cut the deficit to three points, 30-27 at the half and continued on the leaders' neck until they took a lead in the middle of the third stanza.

Dick Zolman led the attack for the winners 16 points while Brush added 15 and Staley finished with nine. Miller was the big gun for Crestline with a 16-point output.

The Crestline squad outscored Mount Gilead from the field, gaining a 20-18 edge in field goals. The Indians, however, notched a decisive edge at the free throw line, 18-11.

The loss gives Crestline an 8-9 season record while Mount Gilead boasts a 11-3 mark. The Indians will meet Lexington here Tuesday night in their finale.

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's stock market edged up another few decimal points Thursday for a second straight 1955 high in the wake of Russia's governmental shakeup.

Irish Bump Fredericktown 54-52 on Last-Second Score

An underdog St. Mary quintet smacked down one of the state's leading Class B squads last night, nipping Fredericktown 54-52 in a spine tingler to close its home season.

The highly-touted invaders absorbed their second setback in 19 games when Roger Micheli dropped in a layup with two seconds to go to put the Irish ahead for the third time through the game. It closed the books on the Irish regular season with a 14-6 mark, best record in three years for the local quintet.

Fredericktown moved out front early and led through most of the game although never by a big margin. Gary Rine and Paul Seymour collected fielders to give the Freddies a 4-0 margin before Jerry Ballenger hit from outside to break the ice for St. Mary. The Irish knotted the count at 5-5 when Johnny Messenger dropped in a free throw but from there Fredericktown took a 16-11 lead at the quarter.

WITH BALLENGER topping the scoring and Gary Howman turning in his top performance of the season under the boards, the Irish remained on the neck of the favorites through the first half of the second stanza and knotted the count at 22-22 at the midway point when Howman batted in a tip-in. A free throw by Howman pushed the Irish ahead 23-22 for their first lead but Rine, hitting consistantly from the corner potted a fielder to push the Freddies ahead 28-24 at the halftime intermission.

Roger Micheli, who was double-teamed by the Fredericktown defenders, knotted the count at the start of the second half at the 26-26 mark and after Rine hit from the corner he repeated to tie the score again at 28-28. From there, the invaders scored seven straight points to take a 35-28 edge, their biggest margin of the game. St. Mary managed to cut the deficit to a single point, 39-38, at the end of the period.

The Freddies clung to their lead through the final stanza and with only 1:51 showing on the clock, the Irish were on the short end of a 50-46 count. Ballenger narrowed the count to 50-48 and with 49 seconds left, Micheli dunked in the tieing score on a jump shot.

Bill Bradock, 6-1 pivotman for the losers, shoved his mates back into the lead with a rebound shot at the 26-second mark at up the score to 52-50. Playing for one all-important shot, the Irish gave Micheli the ball with 12 seconds still to play and the scoring whiz hit on a jump shot from the keyhole to tie the score.

While moving the ball into scoring position, the Freddies made the mistake of pasing too close to Ballenger. He intercepted a pass near the foul line and passed down floor to the fast-breaking Micheli. Micheli, far ahead of the Fredericktown defenders, went in all alone and dropped in the winning tally on a lay-up with two seconds showing on the clock.

PRIOR TO last night's defeat, the only blot on the Freddies' record was a narrow loss to a rugged Chesterville squad.

Ballenger topped the scoring for the Irish with 20 points. He was followed by Micheli with 14 and Howman with 11. Dave Kraft finished with four and Messenger collected three. Seymour topped the losers with 17 while Rine netted 16 and Bill Frazier had 15.

The Irish reserves dropped a 39-38 decision in the preliminary. A last-half comeback was nipped by the Fredericktown futures after they had built up a comfortable margin in the first half. St. Mary trailed 12-8 after the first quarter and appeared hopelessly lost after the halftime count had reached 26-13. By the start of the final period the deficit had been cut to 30-25.

Bob McMahan with 15 and Bill Lavender with 10 were high for the Irish while Jim Koser collected 20 for the winners.

Ex-Marsox Players Included In Red Sox Plans for Season

By MIKE HIGGINS
Boston Red Sox Manager

DALLAS (AP) — I am optimistic about our team's chances next season. We have been unable to make a trade that we thought to our advantage but even so I believe we will be stronger than in 1954.

As you know, I am familiar with our team's strength and weakness mostly through statistics. That can be misleading. There's nothing like personal observation. The personnel of the team, however, is not unfamiliar to me since I have had a number of the boys with me at one time or another.

It seems to me our main weakness last year was in the infield and on the mound. I expect improvement in both places this year, especially on the mound. Pitching, as everyone knows, is the heart of a club. Mel Parnell, our ace, should be back in shape. He was out most of last season with a broken wrist.

Frank Sullivan and Tom Brewer, who did so well in their freshman year, should do even better because they have a full year of big league competition under their belts. Dick Brodowski, a promising youngster, is out of the service and it's possible that we can find some help from the four pitchers coming up from Louisville—Ivan Delock, Tom Curtis, Hershell Freeman and George Susce.

I look for Milt Bolling to get back to where he was in 1953 as a shortstop. He wa a fine young shortstop for me at Louisville and he was very good here until he broke his ankle late in the '53 season. But it's hard to be sure of anyone, especially when you haven't seen these boys for a long time.

We have added Billy Klaus and Owen Friend, two of the best infielders in the American Association, as well as Norm Zauchin, who drove in 118 runs at Louisville. He could add some right-handed batting power to go along with the lefthanded-hitting Harry Agganis at first base.

"Right now it looks like Billy Goodman will be our regular second baseman but I've got an open mind there when it comes to Billy Consolo and Ted Lepcio. Ted, however, may be better at third base where Grady Hatton played a fine game last year. It could be I may have to do some two-platooning but I'd rather have a set lineup if I can.

"My outfield is set if Ted Williams chooses to return. I am looking forward to seeing him at Sarasota but I haven't seen him or talked to him. I hope he gets the baseball itch when spring comes around. If he returns, my outfield will be Williams in left, Jimmy Piersall in center and Jackie Jensen in right. Ted will bat either third or fourth, not second. Third is an ideal spot for a good lefthanded hitter.

"The catching will be well taken care of by Sammy White. Then too, we have three fine looking young receivers coming up. Guy Morton, Joe Buck and Pete Daley all had fine records in the minors.

CENTER TALLER. Latest in basketball is the addition of six inches of sponge rubber to basketball shoes to make the center taller. Here Scotty Deeds, a Los Angeles State coach, fastens "added height" to shoes of center Glenn Abney of Los Angeles State. It didn't do Los Angeles any good, because Utah won, 77-38.

Sycamore Student Wins County Spelling Contest

SYCAMORE —Julian Babcock, Sycamore eighth grade student, won the county spelling championship in Upper Sandusky Friday morning, and this makes him eligible to compete in the state spelling match in May.

Seventy-five words were pronounced for the written test and neither Babcock nor Sharon Brentz of Harpster missed a word. To break the tie, more words were pronounced and of these Julian missed one, while the Harpster student missed more than one. She was named alternate for the state spell-down.

Young Babcock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Babcock of Sycamore.

Buying House That Is Used Needs Thought

Architect Lists Points For Guiding Search Leading to Best Home

The average American family is amazingly casual about buying a used house, a prominent Washington, D. C., architect reports. Often, he says, the selection of a second-hand car is given more consideration.

Since the purchase of a home represents a sizeable investment, the architect recommends a thorough check be made before signing on the dotted line. Here are some of his recommendations:

Be sure the house is large enough for your needs. Consider the number of square feet rather than number of rooms. Try to avoid buying the biggest house in the neighborhood. In old neighborhoods, an extra large house may not bring much more than the average one if offered for resale.

Get an appraisal by an architect, bank or real estate man. Determine how much you must add to the original cost for needed repairs or planned remodeling. Find out whether zoning laws will permit desired additions.

Check to see whether a new electric service will be needed to handle all the modern appliances you want. Most old houses have 60-ampere service- new houses have 100 - ampere service. Remember that adding a new heating system, a bathroom or kitchen is expensive

Make sure the house is structurally sound. Give floors the "marble test." Drop a marble on the floor. If it rolls freely, it indicates that the house has settled unevenly.

The roof requires special attention. Find out, if possible, when the house was last roofed and the probable life of the roofing material used. Then you can estimate how soon you will be called upon for a new roofing job.

While you're inspecting the roof, take a look at gutters and downspouts.

If you are planning to convert the attic into living space, make certain that the attic floor is sufficiently well framed to bear the added load. If there is a fireplace, look up the flue to see whether there is a damper. If there isn't, the heating cost will be higher.

Don't be afraid to try the windows to see if they open properly. And find out whether you will have to purchase new screens or storm windows.

If you are really serious about buying a house, and want to make sure you get full value, the architect recommends, spend a few hours in your public library reading up on the subject, or write to the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington and ask for their publications for prospective home owners.

Mirror Aids Roominess

WHERE SPACE IS AT A PREMIUM, a mirrored wall, such as in this New York apartment, creates the feeling of roominess. By deciding on a mirror here, the decorator literally turned the wall into the focal point of the room. Note how the fireplace on the opposite side is reflected in the mirror, seemingly doubling the room's width. June Cabot, home arts consultant, says interior designers everywhere like such artful tricks with mirrors, particularly where they have a problem of dimension or want to put extra sparkle into a room.

First Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q: I plan to put on a new roof on my house and wonder if I can put the new shingles over the old ones or if I should remove them first. I expect to use an asphalt shingle.

A: It is generally good practice to apply new shingles over the old, providing the old surface is comparatively level and there are no warped or misshapen shingles If so, they could be removed and new ones put in their place, before re-roofing.

Q: The putty on some of our windows has had to be replaced several times in the past seven years. Before re-puttying, the wood was given a good coat of linseed oil. But after a year or so, the putty cracks and falls out in chunks. Can you tell the cause of this and how can it be overcome?

A: There are two possible reasons for the failure in your putty job. One is a poor quality putty and the other is failure to place putty along the inner angles of where the glass is to go. With no putty along the inner angle of where the glass is to go. With no putty at this point, water from sweating windows could flow under the glass and in freezing weather cause the putty to loosen. After removing all the putty, take out the glass and place a small amount of putty against the angle that is to receive the glass Press the glass into position, forcing some of the putty over the edge of the opening, then put in the metal glazing points and back-putty the glass. The addition of about one-fifth as much white lead paste to ordinary putty will improve its holding quality.

Q: Our home is two and one-half years old and of frame construction. The plaster and paint are gradually blistering above the baseboard on one exterior wall. The plaster seems to become powdery and falls off the wall. The condition was first noticed last spring. The remainder of the house is not affected at all. Please advise as to the possible cause and remedy.

A: Plaster disintegrates when subjected to a prolonged condition of moisture. Not having much information to guide me, I can only make some general suggestions. If the affected part of the wall is under or near a window, examine the outside of the window frame for open spaces and fill such spaces with a caulking compound applied with a caulking gun. As this condition became apparent in spring, there is a possibility that frost had accumulated on the roof boards in the attic and, when a thaw had set in, the water dripped down between the studspaces, eventually wetting the plaster.

More ventilation of the attic space is necessary. The disintegrated plaster should be removed and new plaster put in its place. If there is no basement under the room, dampness from the ground could cause the condition. Or, perhaps you need insulation under the floor.

MAN FAILURE

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When it comes to wet concrete and citizens, Lansing aldermen are of the opinion that man is an incautious beast. Alderman Fred Kircher said he watched a dog come up to some fresh concrete, smell of it, look at it for a few seconds and then trot off in the opposite direction and right behind the dog came a man who didn't look at all and plodded right through and took 18 steps in the soft cement before he realized what he was doing."

Plan Shows House Contains 17 Closets

TACOMA, Wash. — How would you like a house with 17 sliding-door closets and storage cabinets? That's the liberal allotment in a prize-winning $20,000 home built nine miles north of here under the sponsorship of the Greater Federal Way Chamber of Commerce.

The four-bedroom house won a citation for contemporary design from the magazine, Progressive Architecture. Offering such top quality features as hardwood floors throughout, it was planned "for easy living."

Almost 28 per cent of the wall area is comprised of glass. Every room has louvre type windows for ventilation without draft. The master bedroom has a separate bath. In the 16 by 20-foot living room is a pink pumice brick fireplace 14 feet long and nearly 8 feet high. Adjacent to the house are a double carport and a covered play area.

Countersinking of Nails Gives Good Appearance

Wood-working projects can be given a more professional appearance by countersinking nail and screw heads. Use nails with small heads (finishing nails) and countersink them with a nail set. For screws, drill holes about 3-16-inch deep, and set the heads of the screws in the holes. Fill in over both nail and screw heads with plastic wood, slightly overall sanding with medium-fine full. Sand down after the plastic wood has hardened.

You'll get a better finish when painting new wood, and save on the amount of paint required, if you first give the wood an overall sanding with medium fine sandpaper, then seal it with a wash coat of shellac, diluted half-and-half with denatured alcohol. Brush on rapidly. When dry smooth lightly with fine steel wool.

PLUMBING

491 Oak St. Phone 2-5522 Marion, Ohio

Regular Inspection Urged for Heaters

The careful motorist, fully alert to the hazards of driving in heavy traffic, may, without knowing it, be running a far greater risk to life and limb when relaxing in the comfort of his own living room.

He may be sitting over a potential bomb in the basement, if his water heater is overheating and building up latent explosive energy.

Some of the most tragic hot water explosions, resulting in serious injury and loss of life, not to mention heavy property damage, are caused by improperly protected water heaters and tanks, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau. The irony of it is that this type of home accident is so easily preventable, the Bureau points out.

Water heaters and tanks may explode because they lack the proper safety controls in the form of pressure and temperature relief valves. On the other hand, a "protected" heater and tank may explode if the temperature safety valve has not been checked periodically to insure proper operating efficiency.

Water in the heater tank always is under pressure. It has to be, in order to reach various faucet outlets at remote locations in the home.

Many home heaters in use today have become weakened through the normal process of aging. These are the ones most likely to spring a leak permitting superheated water to escape and instantly expand into steam with a sudden, blinding explosion.

The best way to guard against a hot water explosion is to have a plumber to make a heater installation. Be sure that pressure and temperature relief valves have been included for safety's sake, and check them periodically for proper functioning against a possible emergency.

Squeaking Floors Called Common Home Problem

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Squeaking floors are one of the most common problems in houses. They are almost always caused by the loosening of nails that hold the subflooring to the joists. Shrinkage and drying out of the lumber causes the nails to loosen.

Squeaks in a first floor are often the easiest to get rid of. A floor over a plastered ceiling offers more of a problem.

When a first floor is over a basement or crawl space, with the underside of the floor structure exposed to view, you can get under it and watch for movement in the boards while someone steps back and forth on the squeaky place.

When the space between the faulty board and the joist is only paper thin, a few finishing nails may stop the squeak. Drive these nails at slight angles through the finish flooring, subflooring and down into the joist. Use a nail set for the last blow to avoid marring the floor. Or an adequately long wood screw may do the trick, in which case it's wise to countersink the screw head far enough to allow for a wood plug on top of it to save the appearances of the floor.

WHERE A JOIST or subfloor has warped and there is a noticeable space between them at the squeaking point, a wedge, such as the thin end of a wood shingle, may be driven between them. Nails are then driven down through the floor to hold the wedges in place.

Resin-coated finishing nails or casing nails, about two inches long, are best for this use. At least two nails driven at different angles are needed for each squeaking point. Nail holes left by the nailset can be filled with wood putty or wood filler.

Another way to bring a floor down tightly is to nail a strip of hardwood to the top edge of a joist and then drive screws up through this into the subfloor to pull the boards down. Use screws only long enough to go through the strip and well into the subfloor without going through the finish flooring above.

Over a plastered ceiling it is difficult to locate the spacing and direction of joists. One way to do it is to tap gently on the ceiling with your knuckles. Spaces between joists will ring hollow. Joists will sound solid. When you locate a solid strip, indicating a joist, measure the distance from the nearest outer wall, which will be in the same place upstairs. Then you can usually figure that the joists are spaced 16 inches on centers and so you can determine the joist located under the squeak.

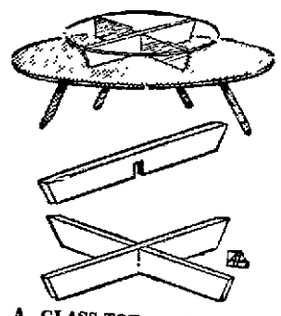
NAILS AND SCREWS through the flooring are about all you can rely on upstairs.

Since hardwood finish flooring covers the original nails that hold subflooring to joists, you may be able to remedy mild squeaks by forcing the floor down without additional nails. To do this, take up the rug or carpet, place several layers of old newspapers or old carpeting on the floor for a pad, put a block on top of this and pound the block vigorously.

Another stop gap for mild squeaks is to puff talcum powder into cracks between floor boards. This lubricates the rubbing points and silences the squeak without stopping the movement. Some people suggest powdered graphite, which is used for automobile locks. But graphite is black and messy and will not enhance the appearance of a hardwood floor.

Glass Table



A GLASS-TOP cocktail table is easy to fashion. Gordon Obrig, industrial designer, suggests doing it this way. Cut a disk, 36 inches in diameter from a panel of plywood ¾-inch thick. Use 1¼-inch dowels 18 inches long for legs. Notch two pieces of plywood 18 by eight inches to support a circle of heavy plate glass, 19 inches in diameter. Bevel and polish the edges of the glass. Sand and dust all wood parts. Finish with white shellac cut half-and-half with denatured alcohol. Polish with steel wool and a good paste wax.

More Women Tackle Workshop Projects Now

Look for more and more women working beside their husbands in the home shop! That's the prediction of a top executive of one of the major hardwood plywood producing companies.

The advent of power tools, he believes, has opened the way for mass participation by women in the "do-it-yourself" movement.

"There is plenty of evidence that womean can be as handy around a piece of equipment as a man," he asserts. "Certainly, they are more careful and anyone who can understand the intricacies of a sewing machine and make it work without sewing her fingers together is capable of using most of the home power equipment on the market."

Many women already are helping to panel rooms with hardwood plywood and to put interior finish on other expansion areas, he reports.

EASILY MAINTAINED

Ease of maintenance is one of the natural attributes of oak floors. Most widely used of all residential floorings, oak can be kept looking beautiful with only a daily sweeping with an untreated dust mop, plus an occasional cleaning and waxing. If you should move into a home where the oak floors have had severe wear and neglect, just sand and refinish them and you will have fine flooring with its original charm.

Experts Reveal Right Method To Thaw Pipes

Frozen pipes, a nuisance familiar to many homeowners in the winter, can become something worse — a hazard to life and limb — if the wrong method is followed in thawing them out.

A blow torch never should be used to start water flowing again through frozen pipes, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau warns. The expansion of water in freezing can crack piping. If it is subsequetly superheated to melt ice in a hurry, the trapped water may suddenly flash into steam with a violent explosion.

Serious injury, if not a fatality, is almost certain to result. And, as if this were not reason enough to argue against the blow torch, there also is the possibility of fire to be considered.

The best — and safest — way to thaw frozen pipes, the Bureau advises, is to take it slow and easy. This means wrapping heavy cloths drenched in hot water around the section where ice has caused a temporary stoppage in the flow of water.

Hardwood Floors Profit From Easy Winterizing Care

Now is a good time to give your hardwood floors a "winterproofing" beauty treatment.

Chances are they are taking a beating during the winter, as floors do in most homes. Properly prepared, however they will survive nicely, and stay gleaming with a minimum of attention.

Preparing them for winter traffic is a simple matter, thanks to modern materials and methods. Assuming the finish is in good condition, all that is necessary is cleaning, waxing and polishing.

This easy upkeep is one of the big advantages of having floors of beautiful oak or other attractive hardwood. It's also a major factor in their overwhelming popularity.

In cleaning, forget the back-breaking business of getting down on all fours and scrubbing with soap and water. That's an outmoded chore, as tough on the floors as it is on you. For one thing, it is likely to raise the grain of the wood and produce a rough surface. Repeated frequently it may even discolor the finish.

Cleaning and waxing can be done in one simple operation with a new type of cleaning wax now available. In liquid form, it can be applied easily with a long-handled lamb's wool applicator. It rids the floors of ordinary dirt and spots and leaves a coating of wax which not only brings out the beauty of the wood but also protects the finish from wear.

Another type of cleaner is basically similar except that it contains less wax. When this type is employed, a separate application of wax is recommended. Either liquid rubbing wax or paste wax does an efficient job. The former has the advantage of being easier to apply. It, too, can be put on quickly with a long-handled applicator.

For polishing, an ordinary soft cloth will suffice if a weighted floor brush or an electric polisher is unavailable.

Given this beauty treatment, your fine hardwood floors are almost a cinch to retain their sparkle throughout the long winter months with just routine dusting and occasional polishing.

Growing Pains

Early Indoors Planting Suggested to Gardeners

By ALBERT S. FULLING
Associated Press Writer

If you want the thrill of an early start in planting, three primary things are needed:

Good soil, containers, and a location for growing.

Once you've got the soil and mixed it well (three parts soil, one part coarse sand and one part peatmoss or leafmold, or well rotted manure) there comes the problem of containers.

Perhaps the most universally used is the seed flat. If you are using old ones, make sure they are cleaned and sterilized. If you buy or build new ones this year, they too should be cleaned.

MANY OTHER types of container have been used successfully. Flower pots, particularly the type for bulbs, are handy . . . small wooden boxes, such as cheese containers, may be wheedled from the delicatessen owner . . . even empty tin cans, smoothly opened at the top and punctures at the bottom for drainage, have been used.

Once the containers are ready, fill them to within two inches of the top and punctured at the bottom for drainage, have been used. Then screen some soil finely for an inch layer atop. Level well to avoid hollows.

Then there's the problem of a proper place to conduct the activity of indoor seedling growing without getting into a great big prespring to-do with the Lady of the House.

A SOUTH WINDOW is good, either in the cellar, living quarters or garage or garden house.

If you've got a cold frame, seeds may be sown either in flats or directly in the soil of the frame bed. Just make sure the level of the bed of the cold frame is an inch or more above the outside soil level, to insure proper drainage and to prevent flooding the inside of the cold frame in early spring downpours.

The most important factors in growing are moisture, warmth and air circulation. Bear these in mind in selecting your growing spot.

—:—

ONCE THE SOIL is mixed and sterilized, containers ready and cleaned, and the growing position located and prepared, you're ready to plant.

Again, there is need for a pause —you have to decide what and how much of either flower or vegetable seed you want to put into the seedling stage indoors.

If you spent long winter months poring over seed catalogues and garden plans, you're ready for action. If you've yet to make up your mind, get with it, get your seeds and get ready.

New Law Allows Added Bathrooms Without Windows

A recent FHA ruling now makes it easier for homeowners and prospective buyers to install extra bathrooms, points out the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau. The new ruling permits installation of inside, or "windowless" bathrooms.

Previously, FHA had stipulated that in order for a home to qualify for a government-insured mortgage, its bathrooms must be ventilated with windows. This provision was particularly hard on purchasers or owners of smaller homes where the logical location of another bathroom would not be next to an outside wall.

Builders and architects in recent years have repeatedly emphasized the need for a reversal of the agency's position, pointing out the many advantages offered by inside bathrooms. For example, without the "outside" limitation on their position, bathrooms often can be located in an area of the home which lends more economy of installation and at the same time is more convenient to the family.

Ventilation can be taken care of by an exhaust fan which is vented to the outside. The fan is usually more effective in removing moisture and odors than even an open window.

An inside bathroom can be kept warmer with less heat, and it can be adequately lighted artificially with complete privacy due to the lack of a window. An inside location also eliminates the undesirable feature common to many outside bathrooms of having the window located over the bathtub.

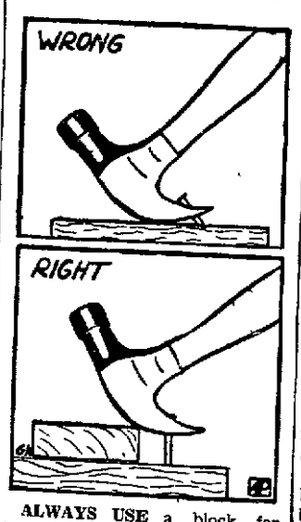
JOGS VANISH

Jogs jutting out from a wall look homely. To make them vanish, build ceiling-to-floor bookcases flush with them. When they occur at the ends of a wall with windows in the center, carry the bookcases all the way to the window frame, and hang ceiling-to-floor draperies at the window from a track on a line with the bookcases. Or omit bookcases, and use wall-to-wall draperies on a ceiling track attached outside the jogs.

DOG GETS MUMPS TOO

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. C. S. Mather thought she had an abscessed tooth and was surprised to learn it was mumps. She was more surprised to learn her dog has contracted the disease as well.

Block Used



ALWAYS USE a block for leverage when pulling a nail with a claw hammer. This allows the nail to come up straight. Without a block, nail bends and tears an ugly hole in the wood. Block also prevents marring surface with hammer.

70th Anniversary Noted By Los Angeles Couple

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Antonio Benenati and his wife, Rosina, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary today. He is 93 and she 89.

"We've never had a quarrel," Benenati told an interviewer. "I've been a patient man. If things didn't go right, I was patient."

House Heating Boiler Used for Melting Snow

A snow-melting installation is an asset to any home and an important work-saving device for its occupants, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

The Bureau calls attention to studies conducted by Professors Peter B. Karpovich and Creighton Hale of the Department of Physiology, Springfield College, Springfield, Mass. These studies showed that shoveling snow for approximately ten minutes places a strain on the heart equivalent to the amount of work performed when running up sixty-one flights of stairs.

Existing homes as well as new homes equipped with hot water heating systems can have snow melting systems, the Bureau points out. Naturally it is most economical if the system is installed during new construction at the time when the concrete for the driveway or the sidewalk is being poured.

Estimates run as low as $75 for installing pipe coils for a snow melting system in a driveway approximately 50 feet long, the Bureau points out. The pipe coils are placed in the wheel tracks of the driveway and then connected with the house heating boiler.

In areas with a moderate snow melting load, the boiler size usually does not have to be increased. U. S. Weather Bureau records show that most snowfall occurs at a mean temperature of 26 degrees F during which time the boiler has a large reserve capacity.

Snow-melting is an important plus feature available with a hot water heating system. In a new building the intial cost is low and the operating cost is less than the cost of manual labor to shovel snow.

CAMOUFLAGE POSTS

Unsightly bearing posts and girders, which frequently deter home owners from undertaking the conversion of basements into playrooms or living quarters, can be made decorative assets through the use of modern materials. Bearing posts, for example, can be enclosed with hardwood plywood to form handsome columns. Girders can be similarly camouflaged to give the ceiling a beamed effect.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Concrete and cement are in such general use today for all kinds of surfaces and floors that we seldom see the brick, stone and slate which formerly constituted the greater percentage of all ground cover. With this general use of concrete there naturally developed a method for making it more enduring and safer to walk on by the addition of emery.

Emery is a natural, hard, practically nonabsorbent mineral, with a tremendous affinity for cement and therefore ideal for use with that easily-handled material. As now manufactured and distributed it comes in various grades and sizes, so that anyone in need of a hard-wearing or extremely non-slip surface can use it without undue fuss or bother.

Most of us know that when a concrete floor is laid, it is supposed to stand up under severe usage but that it frequently starts to dust off or powder. As a result, it is not long before it is ready to develop holes. This cannot happen when emery is mixed with the surface conrete. Emery is tougher than iron wheels and rigidly held together by the cement for which it has such an affinity.

To an ordinary concrete platform, step or surface, such as you might find any place outside the average house, crushed emery, about the size of rice, can be sprinkled on the top while the concrete is fresh, and slightly troweled into the surface. When this sets up, you have a surface which affords the safest possible footing.

Pipe Leaks

Tips on Repair of Homes

By ANDREW C. LONG
Associated Press Writer

DO . . . consider any pipe repair as temporary unless a section of pipe is replaced, even though a temporary repair occasionally will turn out to be fairly permanent.

Do . . . remember that a leak at a joint can sometimes be fixed merely by tightening the fitting.

DO . . . use only a moderate amount of strength in tightening a fitting or you may add to the damage.

DO . . . with a non-joint leak, shut off the water leading to the pipe and thoroughly dry the affected area.

DO . . . fix this type of leak with iron cement, a piece of rubber from an old hose, a small wooden plug or a metal plug or bolt made especially for mending pipes.

DON'T . . . make the common mistake of using a single wrench in tightening or loosening a fitting.

DON't . . . forget to hold the pipe firmly with one wrench while the fitting is being turned with the other.

DON't . . . attempt a repair on a non-joint part of a pipe until you are certain the water still in the pipe (after shutting off the water) has stopped dripping.

DON'T . . . neglect to show every member of the household where the main shut-off valve is and how to turn it off in the event of an emergency.

DON'T . . . when there is a leak in a wall or ceiling, assume that a pipe is leaking at that particular spot, since it may be damaged several feet away; get professional help.

Sin

A Sermonette

By REV. EARL L. HOLLIDAY
Pastor of Maranatha Bible Church

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God," — Rom. 3 23

D L Moody once said, "The Bible will keep you from sin, or sin will keep you from the Bible" Sin is a constant menace to humanity from many angles

It occurred to the writer that there are five independent conditions of sin in every life

1. Sin is the possession of the Adamic nature We are in this sense sinners not because of what we have done, but because of who we are—sons of Adam.

2 Sin is the transgression of the law All trespassing is sin. In this sense it is an act of agression against God It is that committal of the thing or things God forbids

3 Sin is coming short It is failure to reach God's goal or standard. In this sense it is not doing some violation but failure to do what God requires It is coming short of what He expects in a perfectly holy life with no weakness or stain or guilt, or a marring of God s creation

4 Sin is failure to do the very thing we know we should do To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin, says James Any failure to do what we know is right to do is sin The word in this sense means it is sin that needs cleansing and forgiveness the same as any other sin

5 Sin is unbelief Whatsoever is not of faith is sin He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that Diligently seek The Glory of God responds to Faith Said I not unto thee, that if thou should believe, thou should st see the glory of God

The Old Testament word for faith is trust "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart" In the New Testament it is believe Whosoever believeth is not condemned And he that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life What blessing faith can bring! What darkness and despair doubt can bring! Oh brethren, BELIEVE GOD

The sinner that believes on God's Son has everlasting life because his sins are gone in Jesus' precious blood

The SAINT that confesses his sins the same God cleanses and forgives by the precious blood God can take care of your Sin — Your Sin — Your Sins' Are you willing? Turn to him now

When the purchase of a family burial lot in advance of need is such a simple transaction—involving only an hour of your time—it is odd that any family head delays until the time of need. A Word To Those Who Go South

People who go South to live for several months would do well to know what to do if funeral services be required away from Home.

The best plan is to phone or telegraph your home funeral director before taking other action We know just how to proceed in such cases, saving you all of the worry and at times much of the expense

Those who may require such service are welcome to call for further information.

Marble Firms Ask Protected Markets Here

PARKERSBURG, W Va (UP) —Things are still rolling at a local plant and its veteran employes want the federal government to make sure they always will

The firm, one of the country's seven, manufactures those brightly colored marbles that clutter up Junior's pockets and find their way under adult footing at unexpected times

The 60 employes at the local plant are concerned about competition from Japanese marble makers who, because of cheaper labor, can undersell the American product At least one local worker decided to do something about it

Mrs Evelyn Dye, of Vienna, W Va, wrote to Sen Harley M Kilgore (D-W Va) and asked his aid in revising present tariffs on imported marbles

"I can't see taking jobs away from people in the United States for the sake of the Japanese," she wrote

To emphasize her point, Mrs Dye said that during peak years, the seven United States marble plants employed a total of 900 workers Now she said, the seven-plant employment is down to about 300

She offered a suggestion to put American marbles on a competitive level again Why not, she asked, require 'made in Japan" labels on all marbles imported so the cost of labeling would necessitate higher prices

Japanese marbles presently are shipped in bulk with only the container labeled That way they also can be shipped as "ballast" from Japan to San Francisco for only $10 a ton

Officials of the seven American marble firms—six of them are located in West Virginia and the seventh at Ottawa, Ill —met here recently and asked U S Customs for some sort of relief

"Old Ironsides" the famous still preserved USS Constitution, had a sister ship launched in 1797 christened the USS United States She was nicknamed 'Old Wagon" because she was so slow and heavy.
